

Pre-Induction Summons Reaches Octogenarian

HORSESHOE BEND, Idaho — (P) — Thomas Benjamin Newell opened the official looking envelope. It was greetings from the President and an order to report for a pre-induction armed forces physical examination. The notice even threatened 10 years in the "pokey" if he wasn't prompt in reporting. It seemed to be in order—except for one hitch. Thomas Benjamin Newell will be 81 years old on Aug. 30. He was turned down for the Spanish-American war in 1899 because his rifle shootin' wasn't any good and he was too old for World Wars 1 and 2. Newell has a 21-year old son—also Thomas Benjamin—and the pre-induction notice probably was intended for him. But the address was wrong. Newell smiled and said: "That boy's over in Japan helping MacArthur. Been there for nearly two years."

HOLLYWOOD — (P) — After years of puppy love with Mickey Rooney and platonic affairs with Alan Ladd, Donna Reed is finally getting some real romance on the screen. "I feel like a new woman," she glowed. "I've got a new home, a new baby, a new contract and a new kind of role — the first I've ever had with any sex in it."

The sweet-faced actress from Denison, Iowa, has just signed a deal with Columbia. Her first assignment is to make torrid love in "The Hero" with John Derek, the most popular bobbysox idol of the moment.

"Witchy" "It's a real witchy part," she declared. "I couldn't be happier. And for the first time I get to wear some appealing clothes. I have the first low-cut evening gown I've ever worn in films."

Donna did 20 pictures in eight years at MGM and she was inevitably cast as the home-type girl. Either she ended up in a nunnery,

John Derek goes back to swash-buckling in his next picture, "Mask of the Avenger," and he wants to swash his own buckles, if that's the expression.

"I want to do all my own stunts," he claimed. "If Burt Lancaster can do it, so can I."

The actor said he can ride horseback and fence as well as a stunt man, although he admitted he could not take falls as adeptly. I suggested the studio would not want to risk having him ruin his handsome face.

"Spoiled" "We could save the difficult stuff until the end of the shooting," he answered. "I think it helps a picture when an actor does his own lumps. It's spoiled when he is doing all the fancy tricks. And he is doing all the fancy trix. Aknsd I believe the audience can tell the difference."

Even so, what do you want to bet that Derek's fancier capers will be performed by a $200-a-day stunt man?

Hospitalized Ohioan Not To Miss His 76th Fair

COLUMBUS, O. — (P) — It's going to take more than three broken ribs to keep 87-year-old Perry Doran away from his 76th Ohio State fair.

Doran, who operates his own farm in adjoining Licking county, is in Grant hospital, Columbus, with three broken ribs. He was hurt in an auto accident Saturday.

Doran hasn't missed a state fair since the first one in Columbus in 1874.

The Ohio State Journal, Columbus newspaper, said it would see Doran get to the fair during the week of Aug. 27 "... even if he has to go in an ambulance."

The newspaper considers Doran as a special friend.

He learned to read by the newspaper 81 years ago, and he has been reading it ever since.

Roseburg has had its county fair, Ashland its Shakespearean festival, and now, Scottsburg comes up with a unique sort of celebration commemorating its 100th birthday, slated for Sunday, Aug. 27. If you fall into the "old-timer" category or are of pioneer descent, chances are you'll have a story-swappin'-session with folks gathered for the occasion that will comprise one of the most nostalgic and memorable days of your lifetime. A Scottsburg's Centennial celebration. The pioneer town has planned a parade in the morning, a marker dedication in the afternoon, and visitations by many famous pioneer descendants to tell of the early days. Those attending the all-day affair are asked to bring a picnic lunch. The Grange will serve free coffee. Of great interest to visitors will be the many pioneer exhibits, especially planned and set up for the occasion. That date again, when Scottsburg may say: "We're one-hundred years old" — is Sunday, Aug. 27.

Pendleton In Gala Attire For Annual Round-Up

PENDELTON, Ore. — (P) — Streets gaily decorated, Indian tepees in place at the Red man's village and with final preparations being made, Pendleton was in the "hull before the storm" before the round-up.

The show gets underway Thursday afternoon for a four-day run through Sunday, with Happy canyon and night racing scheduled to start Wednesday and continue through Saturday. The historic westward ho parade is booked for 10 a. m. Friday.

Only round-up event of last weekend was the ball honoring Queen Kathryn Lazinka of Ukiah and her court.

Cowpokes, estimated at 175 in number, will vie during the four-day show for $11,000 in prize money plus ground purses, trophies and saddles, with the grand prize a leg on the $5,000 sterling silver Sam Jackson trophy emblematic of the all-around championship.

Four cowboys have two legs on the trophy, with a third needed for permanent possession. One, Everett Bowman of Hillsdale, Ariz., has retired from the rodeo game, but the other three—Everett Shaw of Stonewall, Okla., Bill McFadden of Chandler, Ariz., and Ike Rude of Dodge City, Kas.—are expected to make another try for the title. Choate Webster, young Nowata, Okla., cowpoke is defending champion.
