Tito Assured Of Allied Help If Russia Attacks

TRIESTE — (AP) — Ten thousand British and American troops are ready here if Communism's next armed blow falls on neighboring Yugoslavia.

Garrisoning this allied guarded free territory on the Yugoslav-Italian border, they are "combat ready" in training and equipment. But they sit on a spot too tight to hold—and backed by an Italian army probably still too weak to help.

Their chief bulwark is the opinion—held by American military observers here and in Rome—that the Yugoslav Army would be a tough nut for other Communist states to crack.

Probably no one outside the Kremlin knows if such an invasion blow is scheduled for Yugoslav Marshal Tito's tough little anti-Stalin Communist state.

But if such a Red move should come, most observers think the Anglo-American forces here would be reinforced quickly and ordered into the fight. U. S. action in Korea is an example.

Well-qualified opinion here holds that Tito's troops are equal to or better than any one or two of the surrounding Soviet satellite powers could muster for an attack.

But hit by them all—Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Albania—and by strong Soviet support, Yugoslavia would need help.
