CANNING TIME—The thrifty are still preserving food from late summer and early autumn gardens. What better assortment can be found than this display counter at Douglas Paint and Hardware? Valerie Harness is shown examining the finer points of a pressure canner. (Master studio photo).

The shape of things to come

This Fall, as always, we cling to our text that fashion is flexible . . . fluid . . . individual. The smart woman is one who selects the silhouette that does something for HER — that complements her living and compliments her lines. For the lithe and lean . . . the bulk-on-top look in suit and topcoat. For the femme fatale . . . the sheathed silhouette. For the busy gad-about — the less than perfect figure — the easy coat and the boxy suit jacket. Skirts are slim and stem-like . . . Hats move forward at a flattering angle. Accessories are more important and dramatic. Come in and see all the exciting news in color and texture. Then, write your own Fall Fashion story.
