Landlords Of Seattle Granted Rent Increase

SEATTLE — (P) — A 15 percent increase for Seattle area landlords has been approved effective next Monday, Joseph A. Martineau, chairman of the King county rent advisory board, said.

Landlords who have not been granted a rent increase since June 30, 1927, will be eligible for an adjustment under the plan. Also eligible, according to Richard C. Atwood, area rent director for the county, will be landlords who have had rent increases since June 30, 1927, for increased operating expenses and other approved causes. They will receive only the difference between the increase already received and the maximum of 15 percent.

Weather Speeds Oregon Harvest

PORTLAND — (P) — The Oregon harvest was speeded by generally dry, cool weather, the department of Agriculture and the weather bureau reported.

Fall seeding has been delayed by dry top soil, the weekly report said, but fall plowing and seed bed preparations are on schedule.

Harvest of small grain and summer truck crops is nearly completed and harvest of fall vegetable crops is underway. Late hops are nearly all in, too, except for a few to be hand-picked.

With the Bartlett pear harvest about finished in Hood River county, picking of winter pears has started. The Rogue river area expects to finish picking Anjou pears and start on Boscis this week.

The filbert harvest, the report said, will start about Oct. 1 and the walnut harvest 10 days later.

Potato digging has been slow in central areas but crop prospects there and in the Klamath area continue good.
