3 Workers Hurt In Overpass Crash

EUGENE — (AP) — Tons of wet cement crashed to the ground from a highway overpass under construction here yesterday, injuring three workers.

A section of a six-block long overpass had just been poured when supporting timbers gave way.

One workman, Bill McCarty, Eugene, leaped to a long board, and slid down to safety. Two others standing atop the section could not get away. They fell with the timbers and wet cement.

One of them, Bill Larhke, Eugene, was released after treatment at a hospital. Paul Stanley Chudy underwent surgery for his injuries, but was expected to recover. A third workman, Ray Holbrook, was held at a hospital for observation.

Damage was estimated at about $8000.

The overpass will take automobiles from downtown Eugene to the Ferry street bridge, crossing over the Pacific highway and the Southern Pacific railroad tracks.

The Smithsonian Institution says there is some evidence that plants which make up the great coal deposits grew along the shores of ancient oceans.
