Sailors Union Ends Its Coos Bay Port Embargo

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Harry Lundeberg, head of the AFL Sailors Union of the Pacific, says his union has withdrawn its embargo on the port of Coos Bay, Ore.

"We won our beef with the longshoremen," he commented. "They folded up."

The International Longshoremen's union had protested that the sailors were working more than on hatch on coastwise lumber carriers. The dockers put picket lines on the wharves, the sailors retaliated with another picket line, and work stopped.

Lundeberg said the longshoremen relented last week. At a samens' union meeting the sailors voted to resume traffic to the southern Oregon lumber ports.

Father Kills Crippled Son, Then Shoots Himself

ROCHELLE, Ill. (AP)—Ray Henry, 50, who police said, admitted slaying his young, crippled son and then shot and wounded himself, was held in a charge of murder today.

Henry was in critical condition from the self-inflicted bullet wounds. Police said Henry admitted shooting his youngest son, Garrett, yesterday because he feared the boy would have a difficult time making a living because of his physical condition. The boy had a shortened left leg as a result of a polio attack in 1946.
