

Marry at Impressive Candlelight Ceremony

MRS. ROBERT GOODWIN, who before her marriage Dec. 23 at the Presbyterian church, was Miss Elaine Rapp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rapp of this city. (Picture by Bud Mason).

Floor baskets of white chrysanthemums and greenery and tall candelabra holding white candles formed the background for the impressive wedding ceremony of Miss Elaine Rapp, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rapp of Roseburg, and Mrs. Robert Goodwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Goodwin, also of this city. Dr. Morris H. Roach performed the nuptials at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, Dec. 23, at the First Presbyterian church in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Homer W. Grow, organist played softly on the organ and accompanied Miss Maria Patterson, who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Grow played "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin for the bride party to advance to the altar and at the close of the ceremony, she played Mendelssohn's wedding recessional.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was beautiful in a gown of white slipper satin fashioned with a full train, long sleeves coming to a point at the wrist, a Peter Pan collar trimmed in seed pearls and a peplum at the waist. Her veil of illusion fell from a head-dress of seed pearls. She carried a white orchid circled with white carnations and tied with a shower of white satin ribbons.

Miss Jeanne Rapp, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a gown of champagne satin with a headpiece of white carnations. She carried a nosegay of white carnations. Bridesmaids were Miss Donna Wright of Tulelake, Calif., and Mrs. Jack Mathis, sister of the bridegroom. They wore identical gowns of white and green with matching headbands and carried nosegays of carnations.

Misses Beverly and Shirley Goodwin, sisters of the bridegroom, lighted the candles. They wore yellow and orchid taffeta gowns with wristlets of white button chrysanthemums.

Jim Stout of Portland was best man and ushers were Howard Ehlers of Portland and Loren Johnson of Roseburg.

Joyce and Jean Hatfield, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hatfield, were flower girls and were charming in yellow satin gowns with matching headbands. Bruce Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Smith, was ring bearer.

The bride's mother wore a black crepe dress with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue dress with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of pink rosebuds.

A reception followed in the church parlors. Baskets of white chrysanthemums formed the decorations. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a four-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Serving were Mrs. Norman House of Klamath Falls, and Mrs. Henry Steverson of Salem, sisters of the bridegroom. Miss Joan Zemlicka had charge of the guest book.

For traveling the bride chose a green gabardine suit with beige accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid. Following a honeymoon to San Diego and back via the inland route and Death Valley, Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin are now at home to their friends at the Terrace apartments, Winchester street.

The bride was graduated from Roseburg high school in 1948 and attended Southern Oregon College of Education. She is a teacher in the school at South Deer creek. The bridegroom was graduated from Sweet Home high school in 1944 and served two years with the U. S. Marines. He is now in the contracting business.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Norman House of Klamath Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Wilbur of Greenleaf, Ore.; Mrs. Henry Steverson of Salem (the three women being sisters of the bridegroom); Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ehlers, Jim Stout and Miss Phyllis Fredrickson, all of Portland; Miss Donna Wright of Tulelake, Calif., and Charles Norman and Gerald Norman of Jewell, Ore.

ALPHA IOTA CHAPTER MAKES PLANS FOR GROUP BLOOD TYPING

The first meeting of the year of Alpha Iota chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was held Thursday, Jan. 4, at the home of Mrs. Ralph Ohman, with Mrs. Robert Phillips, co-hostess.

Final arrangements for the rummage sale to be held Saturday, Jan. 30, at the Episcopal parish hall were made. Every one, non-members included, is urged to gather up any salable articles around the house and call one of the following members for pick-up if desired: Mrs. Robert Phillips, 1058-L; Mrs. Walter Welker, 105-L; Mrs. Sidney Domenico, 5309-L-3.

Thursday night, Jan. 11, between the hours of 8:30 and 8 p.m., has been set aside for members and their husbands to go to the second floor of the Veterans hospital to have their blood typed.

Members enjoyed a delightful program, presented by Mrs. Craig Short on "Travel."

Guests present for the evening were Mrs. Robert Ewing, Mrs. Bud Cowin, Mrs. Ed John, Mrs. Marvin Summers and Mrs. Andy Murray. Members present were the Mesdames Craig Short, Walter Welker, Robert Kidder, Robert Phillips, Ralph Ohman, Sidney Domenico, Robert Sabin, Verdon Bookcock, Frank Wickham, Robert Davie, Ernest Barker Jr. and Ed Radigan.

Climbing Retail Food Prices Near All-Time Peak

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Retail food prices, nosed upward during the first half of December almost to the all-time peak of July 1948. This was reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics as farm belt congressmen protested in advance against an anticipated request from President Truman to let him put his own controls on farm prices.

Democrats and Republicans alike predicted that Congress wouldn't go along with any proposal which might result in lower prices for farmers. They said lower prices would mean smaller production at a time when the nation needs more food.

A controversy over prospective controls on food prices shined up in the wake of Mr. Truman's news conference statement Thursday that he may ask Congress to change the law which gives him price-wage control powers. He said across-the-board wage and price controls would be put into effect as soon as they were needed and it was physically possible to do so. Then he went on to say the law would have to be changed for controls on farm products.

Asked if he intended to ask Congress for a change, the President suggested that reporters wait for his state of the union message Monday — a broad hint he would make such a recommendation.

THE WEDDING PARTY OF Robert Goodwin and Elaine Rapp (bridegroom and bride in center of picture) poses for Bud Mason, photographer, following the wedding service, Dec. 23 at the Presbyterian church. Left to right: Shirley Goodwin, Howard

Wilbur

By ELSIE BROZIO
Mr. and Mrs. Everett Thomas entertained with a Christmas dinner at their home in Wilbur. Those present were Mrs. Emma Harvey, Laurie, Gilbert and Shirley Harvey, Douglas Hart and Estella Harvey.
Mr. and Mrs. Lloyl Harvey entertained with a Christmas dinner at their home in Wilbur. Those present were Mrs. Emma Harvey, Laurie, Gilbert and Shirley Harvey, Douglas Hart and Estella Harvey.
Mr. and Mrs. Lonny Watkins and family were entertained at a Christmas dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rhodes of Roseburg. Miss Barbara Watkins is spending the Christmas holidays in Hayward, Calif., visiting friends and relatives.
Mr. and Mrs. Calgin Henry and son Scott, of Umpqua, Ore., entertained with a turkey Christmas dinner at their home. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Brosio and children, Ryland, Maria and Connie and Mrs. Carrie Blakely of Wilbur, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Scallan and children, Sherry and Phillip of Umpqua and Mrs. Mrs. Vern Lerpill of Tillamook, Ore.
Mr. and Mrs. Lee Moorhouse and family had as pre-Christmas dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Hardesty of Sutherlin. Mr. and Mrs. Moorhaus spent Christmas day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Webster in Sutherlin.
Mr. and Mrs. J. Oakes had as Christmas dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Badden of Kirby, Ore. and Collins Oakes.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Brown and daughter entertained with two holiday dinners at their home in Wilbur. Guests for Sunday dinner were Mr. and Mrs. William Emery of Kenwick, Wash., Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Leitheiser and children, Michael and Kathy, Mrs. C. O. Russell and Arney Van Cleve. Guests for dinner on Christmas day were Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Brown and daughter, Janice, of Days Creek; Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Brown and son Ricky of Grants Pass, Ore. and Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Leitheiser and children, Michael and Kathy of Portland, Ore. Holly and chrysanthemums were arranged attractively around the rooms.
Mr. and Mrs. Ed Russell entertained with a holiday dinner at their home in Wilbur. Guests were their daughter and family Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Barret of Willamina, Ore. Mr. and Mrs. Barret stayed over for a weeks vacation at the Russell home.
Mr. and Mrs. Jess Russell had as guest for Christmas dinner, Mrs. C. O. Russell of Wilbur. Mrs. Russell is the mother of Mr. Jess Russell.
Mr. and Mrs. James Torgerson entertained at Christmas dinner at their home in Wilbur. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sands and children, Vicky Rae and Lorraine of Roseburg, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Yang and children, Lorraine and Karen Ann of Roseburg, Dick Sands of Portland and Mr. Charley Schroder of Wilbur.
Mr. and Mrs. George Short had as guests for Christmas dinner, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jenkins and children, Sharlene and Patrick of Wilbur, Mrs. and Mrs. H. D. McKay of Wilbur, Miss Mary Ellen McKay of Portland, Ore., Del McVay of Wilbur and Mrs. D. P. McKay of Wilbur.
Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Chancellor and daughter Alva Gean drove to Dixonville to spend Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Neal and family and to spend a night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lowery at Dixonville.
Mr. and Mrs. Menzie Lee entertained at a Christmas dinner at their home in Wilbur. Guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Julia Brown and son Kenneth, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Burr and children Marilyn and Ronald, and Miss Marjorie Johnson of Sublimity, Ore.; Mrs. Joe Ziebert and children Richard, Robert, Kenneth, Charlotte of Mill City, Ore.; Mrs. Francis Mitchell, Miss Muriel Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hill and children Michael Lee and Larry of Roseburg.

MR. AND MRS. TOMAN HONOURED AT SURPRISE HOUSEWARMING PARTY

Friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Toman, who moved into their new home in lower Garden valley on the Umpqua river, celebrated their housewarming party at their home on New Year's eve with a joyous party at their lovely new home in lower Garden valley on the Umpqua river.

MISS MURIEL MITCHELL GUEST SPEAKER AT WOMAN'S CLUB TUESDAY

Miss Muriel Mitchell, Roseburg Public library librarian, was guest speaker of the Roseburg Woman's club meeting at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday at the Methodist church parlors. Miss Mitchell gave a very charming talk on "Mrs. Club-women Looks at the County."

The bride's mother wore a black crepe dress with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue dress with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of pink rosebuds.

A request was read from Mrs. Kelsie Hamlin Osborn, former guest speaker of the club, asking for clothing, especially for children or to be made over, and quilt patches to be sent in a box to the people of the Cumberland mountains. Donations are to be brought to the next meeting. Mrs. Osborn sent a Christmas card bearing an original poem to the club members.

A letter was read from Mrs. Alvah C. Cowan, safety chairman, OFWC, regarding the 1950-51 theme, "Evergreen Home A Safe Home."

Mrs. Lucien Cobb read an article from the panel discussion of the state convention OWFC by Mrs. J. C. Woodworth, president of the Pendleton Woman's club and entitled "Purpose of Women's Clubs."

By request, the purpose of blood typing and giving of blood was explained and volunteers were called for with several members responding.

Mrs. Boyle closed the program by giving the reading, "A Prayer For Peace," by John Oxenham. The annual scholarship luncheon and guest-day affair will be held Jan. 16 in the church parlors. Mrs. Clyde Carstens will be program chairman. Hostesses include Mrs. Harry F. Hatfield and Mrs. E. A. Pettet, co-chairmen, Mrs. G. Lloyd Hayes, Mrs. C. A. Hazen, Mrs.

ELEANORE MICELLI posed on the well-head of one of several marble wells formerly used as common source of water supply in courtyards of the Monastery San Martino isolated atop Naples' highest hill and commanding a superb view of Naples and its fine harbor.

"As I See It" by Eleanore Micelli

On the continent called Earth there are two different worlds; one is that of the United States and perhaps Canada, the other is composed of all the other countries excluding perhaps Australia about which I don't know too much, South America and the Scandinavian countries which I gather belong to an in-between world.

The world called United States and perhaps Canada is highly mechanized, a world where time and leisure are important. Its inhabitants seek riches and comfort, speed and ease of living, the social mores all important. To say that this world is completely material and wealth matters more than individuals is as false as to say that its people are so bent upon pursuing each his own life as to overlook the human touches and warmth of understanding. But it is an aggressive world, a youngster expanding his lungs in pride of physical strength and muscle superiority.

The world including Europe, Africa, Asia (India, Siam, China before the Communists) although varying widely in cultural and physical and linguistic phases stands together in the ancient craftsman's pride of an article entirely made by his own hands, pride of family ownership of articles eternally close to the soil and to the sun, careless of schedules but quick to play as carefree children play. Its an old world, tired to its bones of fighting and strife, used to resisting changes forced upon it, cynical almost to bitterness, quick to judge human nature, sceptical of radical programs and "get rich quick" schemes alike.

It's a world where most people ask personal questions because they really want to know, not just make conversation; where a person who doesn't like you (and doesn't need you) doesn't bother with you; where human qualities are more important than fashionable new-looking clothes, and an individual superior to the size of his pay-check.

In the second world, shabby, miserable, gay, brilliant, a meal may take two hours or more to eat, every course ordered a la carte and served separately. Table wine is cheaper than bottled water and in many places, purer. The alcoholic content is much lower than here, and wine diluted with water is given even to babies. In France and Italy and Spain drunkards are almost unknown, Mohammed forbids alcoholic drinks and a foreigner to become intoxicated on the light wines is the worst social error possible.

There are so many people and so little tillable land, that farming is carried on the old-fashioned way by horse and plow, harvesting by all the family. A Luxembourg farmer, owner of a sizeable wheat farm told me "suppose we get machines to do the work; everything could be done on this small plot in a week's time; then where would my workers go, and what would we do the rest of the year?"

There's time plenty to live and love. From 1 - 4 in Italy and Spain, and Africa is siesta, and everything closes away from the heat. In Venice, where carries are impossible, mothers carry babies in their arms. Friends greet the mother or relative, speak to or kiss the baby. I'm told here mothers don't want their babies kissed; it's unsanitary. I've asked around, but I've never heard of an unwanted baby in Italy, nor a physician diagnosing a child feeling unwanted. If a child cries on

I don't know which world is the best. I'm young, goodness knows, and I don't know all about life nor like Schopenhauer "what is best for the majority of the people is best for the individual." I'm American, I was born here, and I like it the way it is, but I've seen a lot, and I've had a lot of time to sit and wonder and think. As I see it, America is pausing in her world race to pick up some of the old things (like the new "fad" for square dancing, desires for larger families, a place in the country). Europe is picking up boogie wogie, a few machines, and sometime the time-clock. Basically people everywhere are alike in their fundamental desires for a family, a livelihood, etc. Eventually, that is in two or three hundred years, I think people will feel and act and think pretty much the same everywhere. In the meantime there's only one way to understand the other world, that it is another world, neither better nor worse than our own, only older and sadder and wiser, but above all, completely different.

By the way for those of you who are or have special friends who collect stamps, I have quite a few stamps from Italy, France, Curacao and Cuba in particular, a few from almost all other countries. If you'll write me in care of the News Review telling me what stamps you'd most like to have (some are real beauties) I'll be glad to send them to you.

And so friends, I bid you adieu until we meet again. About the middle of next week I'm off to San Francisco to work and to study. Although I'd really like to get out and travel, I don't feel quite safe as the places I'd now most like to visit (like Java, the East Indies, Siam, India) are most unsafe at present. Besides, I've run out of money again and there aren't any ships selling those waters that carry women as stewardesses!

SALEM VISITOR HONORED AT LUNCHEON RECENTLY
Mrs. Jack Wharton entertained for her daughter-in-law, Mrs. G. W. Wharton of Salem, who visited here over the Christmas holidays, with a luncheon at the Shalimar Friday. Those present were Mrs. Jack Chapman, Mrs. Charles Collins, Mrs. George Neuner, Mrs. Gordon Stewart, Mrs. Charles Osterlander and Mrs. Walter Allen. During her sojourn in Roseburg, Mrs. Wharton was entertained at several charming affairs.

ON KING'S HONOR LIST—Mrs. Fanny Horne, 88-year-old English farm worker, was made a member of the Order of the British Empire in the New Year honor list of King George VI. Here she stands in the garden of her four-room cottage at Home Farm, Preston, England. Mrs. Horne, who has 19 great-grandchildren, spent the last two weeks thrashing on the farm. She has been a widow for 36 years. (AP Wirephoto).

Fred Herman, Mrs. William Hoefel, Mrs. Helen Hodges, Mrs. George E. Houck, Mrs. V. T. Jackson, Mrs. Mabel Wilson and Mrs. Charles Hafer.

On the continent called Earth there are two different worlds; one is that of the United States and perhaps Canada, the other is composed of all the other countries excluding perhaps Australia about which I don't know too much, South America and the Scandinavian countries which I gather belong to an in-between world.

The world called United States and perhaps Canada is highly mechanized, a world where time and leisure are important. Its inhabitants seek riches and comfort, speed and ease of living, the social mores all important. To say that this world is completely material and wealth matters more than individuals is as false as to say that its people are so bent upon pursuing each his own life as to overlook the human touches and warmth of understanding. But it is an aggressive world, a youngster expanding his lungs in pride of physical strength and muscle superiority.

The world including Europe, Africa, Asia (India, Siam, China before the Communists) although varying widely in cultural and physical and linguistic phases stands together in the ancient craftsman's pride of an article entirely made by his own hands, pride of family ownership of articles eternally close to the soil and to the sun, careless of schedules but quick to play as carefree children play. Its an old world, tired to its bones of fighting and strife, used to resisting changes forced upon it, cynical almost to bitterness, quick to judge human nature, sceptical of radical programs and "get rich quick" schemes alike.

It's a world where most people ask personal questions because they really want to know, not just make conversation; where a person who doesn't like you (and doesn't need you) doesn't bother with you; where human qualities are more important than fashionable new-looking clothes, and an individual superior to the size of his pay-check.

In the second world, shabby, miserable, gay, brilliant, a meal may take two hours or more to eat, every course ordered a la carte and served separately. Table wine is cheaper than bottled water and in many places, purer. The alcoholic content is much lower than here, and wine diluted with water is given even to babies. In France and Italy and Spain drunkards are almost unknown, Mohammed forbids alcoholic drinks and a foreigner to become intoxicated on the light wines is the worst social error possible.