HOLIDAY AFFAIR AND CHILI SUPPER IS HELD BY LOOKINGGLASS GROUP

Members of the Youth Fellowship group of the local church ushered in their holiday activities with a chili supper Thursday evening preceding Christmas, at which time they held a rehearsal for the Christmas program and sanded the candy for the annual Sunday School treat given to the children at the close of the Christmas program on Saturday evening.

The Christmas program included a candle-light pageant given by the children's division of the Sunday school, an exercise by the intermediate girls and carols by the choir. On Friday evening the youth group went on a caroling tour of the valley concluded at the home of Miss Elouise Oliviant where refreshments were served by Mrs. Oliviant assisted by Mrs. J. C. Williams. On Christmas night the group again went caroling and gathered later at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Marsh where they were served refreshments and viewed the colored slides taken of last year's heavy snow storm in the valley and the slide made of a former group of carolers. The group posed for a colored slide this year to add to the collection.

On Friday evening the group was entertained with a taffy pull at the home of Miss Winifred Williams.

A watch night service was held at the church on New Year's eve, which included Bible study by the various age groups followed by a group meeting in the sanctuary.

The children's division presented an object lesson demonstration under the direction of their leader Mrs. C. H. Gateman and a message was brought by the pastor. At the close of the church service, the regular monthly meeting of the officers of the church and Sunday school was held followed by a social hour. The service was concluded by a commitment session led by the pastor closing at the midnight hour.

Ida Chamberlin Is Married in Georgia

The marriage of Miss Ida Chamberlin, daughter of Mrs. Florence Chamberlin of Toccoa, Ga., formerly of Roseburg, to Lee Upole of Pittsburg, Pa., was solemnized Nov. 18, at the First Presbyterian church in Toccoa by Rev. James Lyman.

Miss Edna Graves, organist, played the nuptial music, assisted by Mrs. William Harmar Good Sr., Mrs. J. T. Mathes, soloists; Mrs. Chester Hall and Mrs. Pinkie Ware, violinists, and Hans Steyer, cellist.

Floor baskets of white chrysanthemums with a background of palms and white tapers in the seven-branched candelabra formed the decorations.

Miss Jo Nell Made of Gainesville, Ga., was maid of honor and wore a gown of watermelon-colored taffeta with a veil of the same shade. She carried a nosegay of pink carnations.

Little Miss Taffy Hall, as flower girl, wore a similarly styled frock of pale green taffeta and carried a basket of rose petals. Christopher Good, as ring bearer, carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

Francis Robinson was best man and George Raff and James Taylor were ushers.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother, was lovely in a white satin gown fashioned on train. Her fingertip veil was held in place with a coronet of seed pearls. The veil had previously been worn by her sister, who is now Mrs. Edward Karcher of Roseburg. The bride carried a white satin prayer book topped with an orchid.

The bride's mother wore a gown of maroon velvet with an orchid corsage.

At the close of the ceremony the couple knelt on the white satin pillow as Mrs. Mathes sang "Seal Us Oh Holy Spirit."

Following the ceremony, the couple received the best wishes of the guests.

For traveling the bride chose a green suit with brown accessories. Her corsage was a purple orchid.

Following the rehearsal the evening before the wedding, the bridal party was honored at Collier's tea room with the bride's mother, Mrs. Florence Chamberlin, as hostess at a dinner. A string quartet furnished music for the occasion. Yellow chrysanthemums formed the table decorations and a beautifully decorated wedding cake was cut.

Blood Loss Most Dangerous Side, Effect From Accidents, Illness, Says Dr. Haskins

By DR. JOHN L. HASKINS
Manager Roseburg Veterans Hospital

People always have and always will be ill or injured in accidents, and in an illness or in an accident, one of the side effects most dangerous to the individuals is the loss of blood and blood constituents. Loss of too much blood, either from illness or from accident, may mean the death of the individual. For centuries medical people have been attempting to find an easy, safe and speedy method to replace this blood. While we still do not have too perfect a method of replacement, yet we do have a safe method, a comparatively easy method, and for an emergency, a fairly speedy method of giving to the individual blood from healthy people and thus possibly saving a life.

In view of the high rate of automobile and other accidents, and also considering the possibility of a war emergency, the state and county are acting to put into effect a plan whereby every individual in the community, if he desires, may assure himself of speedy help if he is injured and needs life saving blood. It has been discovered that any kind of blood will not do for transfusion. The blood must come from a healthy individual, the blood must be of the proper type, and must have other certain reactions. If we have not properly tested before the transfusion is given and if we administer the wrong type of blood, there may be serious injury to the recipient. Therefore, it is necessary that both the individual who receives the blood, the recipient, and the one who gives the blood, the donor, be typed and matched before the blood is given. This is not a particularly difficult procedure, but one that must be done in order to assure safety and benefit to the recipient.

Procedures told

The program now being developed consists of two definite and separate procedures. These are, (1) "The Blood Bank"; (2) community-wide blood typings.

The blood bank is a nationwide Red Cross program. In essence, it means that the individual may donate blood in amount of one pint at a time. The blood may be given at regular intervals when the Red Cross bloodmobile visits the community. The blood will be drawn by experts and taken to a central laboratory for processing and typing. Part of the blood will be returned to the community for use and part of it will be used by the armed services. This is similar to the program used in World War II. If this program is successfully developed, it means that the community will have a reserve of typed blood for use at all times in case of accident or emergency. Provided that enough blood is furnished by the community for its own use and for the armed services.

The second phase of the plan is a program whereby as many individuals as possible in the community will have had their blood typed and keep a record of their type always on their person. This record may be on a separate card, driver's license, or union card. Then in an emergency and if blood were needed, the physician or the hospital would know at once what type of blood to use. Then, if there were a list of donors already typed and typed, someone among their friends or relatives could be called immediately and an emergency blood transfusion could be done. That this program might be successful, requires that there be in the community a large number of people typed previously and this list of donors, with their type and certain other information, available at the hospitals.

Data Should Be Carried

The Red Cross program is well underway. The bloodmobile, will visit Roseburg late in January and information will be available to the community well in advance of that date so that those who desire may donate blood at that time. The laboratories in Douglas county are cooperating in the typing program and on definite evenings individuals may call at the laboratories and have a small amount of blood drawn. This will be typed and tested and they will be given a small card which they should carry at all times. On this card will be their name, address, and their type and Rh factor. A list of these individuals will be retained at the hospital, Red Cross, county health office, and the police station so that if there is an emergency and blood of their particular type is needed, they may be called upon to volunteer to give blood.

Farm Prices Up About 20 Percent

PORTLAND — (AP) — An almost steady increase in 1950 brought level of average prices paid to Oregon farmers at the end of the year about 20 percent above the year before.

Four percent of the increase occurred between mid-November and mid-December, the bureau of agricultural economics reported. The only decrease, a slight one, took place between September and October.

Farmers received record high prices in December for beef cattle, veal, sheep, lambs, milk cows, wool and milk sold at retail, the bureau said. Although the price average for all farm commodities in the state was still slightly below the 1948 peak, the U. S. index of price paid to farmers soared to a new all-time high in December. This included interest, taxes and wage rates.

Grain price changes between mid-November and mid-December ranged from none for rye to an increase of 10 cents a bushel for corn. Wheat was up three cents a bushel to average $1.99 on Dec. 15. Oat and barley prices increased one cent a bushel.

Egg prices were up 10 cents a dozen over the month before to 56 cents.
