World's Expense For Flying Exceeds $256 Billion Total

By JAMES J. STREBIG
Associated Press Aviation Reporter
WASHINGTON — A British scientist has figured that from Dec. 17, 1903, the day the Wright brothers flew, up to 1949, the world spent $256,000,000,000 on aviation.

That is almost exactly the federal debt today and nearly four fifths of the military costs of World War II to the United States.

The estimate was made by Sir Richard Fairey, founder in 1915 of the British airplane company of that name and holder of most of the aeronautical honors attainable in England.

Russia Is Only Guess
Sir Richard achieved his total with a painstaking year by year study of government reports and translation of national currencies into dollar equivalents at the time of the spending.

Global spending for civil aviation, including the Berlin airlift, was figured at $11,500,000,000 for the 48 years. This is only about one dollar in 25 of the grand total.

By 1939 the world was spending around $390,000,000 a year on civil aviation. But in the last year of the study—the fiscal year ending in 1949—the total was $2,250,000,000. The yearly rate was equal to

The desire has been expressed by the team for a sponsor from this community. Anyone interested in giving the team a hand should contact David Holtean at his home or dial 9-8817 evenings.

Mrs. A. C. Sherlock has resumed her duties as deputy in the sheriff's office in Roseburg, after having been confined to her home because of illness.

The next meeting of the Ceramics club, recently organized in Winston, will be held at the home of Mrs. Otto Jones on Thursday, March 15. All ladies in the community interested in the hobby are invited to attend.

In keeping with the Lenten season a religious program was presented at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Rhodes on Wednesday evening. Group singing was followed by the presentation of a 45 minute script by Mrs. Rhodes.

Winston and other hoop squads, most of whom like Winston, are unsponsored, have elected to have a "single elimination tournament" at the Rose school on Tuesday evening. Games are scheduled to be
