Trotters Top Stars In Rose Bowl Contest

PASADENA, Calif. — (AP) — The goose was loose and the crowd was loud last night as the Harlem Globetrotters slipped and slid to a 57-38 victory over the College All-Stars in the Rose bowl's first basketball game.

The win gave the Trotters a 7 to 2 lead in the 19-game cross country tour. The crowd of 31,684 was believed to be the largest ever to attend a game here.

Reese (Goose) Tatum was a standout both in the laugh department and on the scoresheet. He scored 24 points, almost half the winning team's total.

Winners Of Movie Academy Awards Linked In Report Of House Un-American Quiz

By BARNEY LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The House un-American activities committee has linked several hundred prominent Americans—among them movie academy award winners Jose Ferrer and Judy Holliday—with what it described as a Communist "world-wide peace offensive."

At the same time last night, the committee intimated that many so named may have been unwitting dupes of the Red campaign, which it described as "the most dangerous hoax ever devised by the international Communist conspiracy."

In a forward to a 166-page analysis of Communist "peace" tactics, which it declared was intended to destroy American morale and shield Russian military intentions, the committee made provision for disclaimers by innocent persons. It said:

"The committee having no desire to charge any innocent person with having Communist affiliations, will therefore publish the names of any individual who has so withdrawn from these organizations or whose name was used by these organizations without permission or knowledge in a future report, if such person will communicate with the committee, giving the circumstances in his particular case."

Miss Holliday Denies

A prompt denial came from Miss Holliday, whose portrayal of the dumb blonde in "Born Yesterday" won her this year's movie Oscar.

In a statement issued in New York, she declared she was "not a member of any organization listed by the attorney general as subversive. In any instance where I lent my name in the past, it was certainly without knowledge that such an organization was subversive."

Miss Holliday said she previously had made a sworn statement "to the effect that I am not now and never have been a member of the Communist party."

Both Miss Holliday and Ferrer were named among the sponsors of the scientific and cultural conference for world peace, held in New York in March, 1949. The committee called this an American front for a campaign which had its origin on a worldwide basis in 1947 with creation of the Communist information bureau—successor to the Communist International.

with from five to 19 Communist-front organizations.

Ferrer, whose role in "Cyrano De Bergerac" won him the male academy award, was also named among 49 sponsors who have given their open support to Communist candidates in election campaigns.

Ferrer has been subpoenaed for an appearance later this month in the committee's current investigation of Communist influences in Hollywood. He has denied being a Communist.

Other movie folk whose name appeared in the report were Chaplin, Howard Da Silva, Gale Sondergaard, Artie Shaw and Karen Morley.

Rockwell Kent, the magazine illustrator, was listed as having been affiliated with "at least" 85 front groups. Three other sponsors of the New York peace conference—Langston Hughes, Robert Morass Lovett and Donald Ogden Stewart—were credited with from 71 to 80 front affiliations.

Paul Robeson, Mary Van Kleeck, James Waterman Wise and Harry F. Ward were listed as having affiliations with 51 to 60 groups.

Thereafter, the number of affiliations dropped sharply, and the number of names in each group went up.

Kent Admits Minor Role

As a witness in a lawsuit in New York, Kent testified he once headed sponsors of a fund drive for the Communist newspaper, the Daily Worker, but said he "didn't do a darned thing." He said he was "sort of an honorary chairman."

He added, however, that in his opinion the Daily Worker presented the news more accurately than some other papers.

The committee's report devoted considerable space to two university scientists—Dr. Linus Carl Pauling of the University of California; and Dr. Philip D. Morrison, physics professor at Cornell university and atomic scientist who helped perfect the A-bomb.

The committee said Dr. Pauling played "a leading role" in the Communist peace movement in the U. S., and that he had "not deviated a hair's breadth" from what it called a "pattern of loyalty to the Communist cause since 1946."

At Pasadena, Dr. Pauling declined to comment.

Dr. Morrison was termed "another important pillar of the Communist peace campaign" in the United States who "travels up and down the country on his Red mission." Morrison said at Ithaca, N. Y., he belongs to no subversive organizations and is a member of only one political party, the American Labor party.

"I don't think much of the record of the House un-American committee for accuracy or honesty," he added.

E Savings Bonds Extension Offers Three Options

On March 28, President Truman signed H. R. 2268, thus making the extension of series E savings bonds for another ten years an accomplished fact. This act, according to E. C. Sammons, Oregon state savings bonds chairman, is a most decided advantage to the holders of series E bonds.

According to a recent announcement by the secretary of the Treasury, holders of maturing E bonds have three options, as follows:

Option 1. Cash — The owner of any series E bond may receive, if he wishes, full cash payment for his bond at maturity. This is, of course, in accordance with the original terms of his contract. He may receive his cash by presenting his maturing bond to any qualified bank or other paying agent, any Federal Reserve bank or branch, or the United States Treasury. It should be made perfectly clear that the offerings under options 2 and 3 with respect to maturing bonds do not in any way restrict this right of the investor to cash his bond at any time.

Option 2. Extension of E bonds — Under this option, the owner will be given the privilege of retaining his bond for a period not to exceed 10 additional years during which time interest will accrue at the rate of 2 1/2 percent simple interest each year for the first 2 1/2 years, and then increase for the remaining 7 1/2 years to bring the aggregate interest return to approximately 2.9 percent, compounded semi-annually. This choice requires no action on the part of the owner. Any bond which is not turned in for cash at its original maturity date will be extended until such time as the owner does present it for payment. However, again it is to be emphasized that the extended bonds will also be redeemable at the owner's option, and when presented for payment the holder will receive the full face value of the bond plus interest which has accrued at the new rates. Congress has continued the existing option of paying federal income taxes on interest on series E bonds currently or in the year in which the extended bonds finally mature or are redeemed.

Option 3. Exchange for a series G bond — This third option was specifically designed for those who are desirous of receiving current interest income. Series G bonds are registered bonds issued at face amount and bear interest at the rate of 2 1/2 percent per annum, payable semi-annually from issue date until their maturity in 12 years. A holder of maturing E bonds may exchange such holdings for the current income G bonds within a period of time prescribed by Treasury regulations. He may redeem the G bonds at his option at any time after six months from the issue date upon one calendar month's notice. Also, G bonds issued in exchange for maturing E bonds will be redeemable at full face value whenever they are presented for payment. However, the privilege of deferring taxes on the interest on a series E bond does not apply if the E bond is exchanged for a G bond.

The provisions outlined above will apply to all outstanding E bonds as they mature and will also apply to all new series E bonds issued in the future.
