Bills To Increase Pay For Accidents Given First OK

SALEM — (AP) — The senate labor and industries committee has voted for two house bills to increase industrial accident payments 14 percent, and to go back to the 1947 system of defining a seasonal employer as one who is shut down in an off-season for four straight years.

Employees of seasonal industries don't get unemployment benefits in the off-seasons. The present law says an industry is seasonal if shut down two out of any three years.

The senate passed and sent to the House a memorial asking Congress to stop the use of mining claims to cut timber, and a bill to allow the ending of public construction contracts in an emergency.

The Senate sent to the governor three bills to let needy blind persons earn up to $50 a month and still get assistance, to permit medical and hospital care for dependent children, and to make the welfare laws conform with federal laws.

The ways and means committee approved a $5,650,000 two-year budget for the state hospital. This is slightly higher than recommended by the governor because of recent pay increases.

To Study Salmon Fishing — The house game committee approved a $10,000 appropriation for an interim committee to study salmon fishing in Oregon streams.

Rep. Fred W. Adams, Ophir, chairman of the committee, said he hopes the interim committee would "clear up some of the problems of our decreasing salmon numbers."

The interim committee would report to the 1953 legislature.

The senate natural resources committee voted to set up an interim committee to coordinate activities of existing state boards and departments concerned with conservation and use of the state's resources.

Pay For Convicts Voted — The house state and federal affairs committee voted 5 to 2 for a senate bill to let the warden pay prison convicts up to $1 a day for their work.

Opposing the bill were Reps. Raymond C. Coulter, Grants Pass, and Sprague Carter, Pendleton.
