

New Method Employed To Speed Erection Of Concrete Walls

Construction methods of a type new to this area were employed by United Builders, Inc. of Portland, in the erection of a large concrete building at the intersection of Garden Valley road and the Pacific highway, for Grace Coop of Cottage Grove and to be occupied by the Pacific Chain Saw company of Roseburg.

Walls of this building were poured in sections in forms laid upon the finished floor. This concrete floor was sprayed with a liquid which prevented fresh concrete from adhering to it, thus furnishing the bottom for the section to be poured, which then needed only to be formed at the sides. Any number of sections thus may be laid, one upon the other, of equal or smaller size.

The sections are fitted with an ingenious system of grooves at the ends, or in some cases steel hooks; upon being placed end to end, after erection, cement is poured down through these interstices, which ex-

Parents Denied Custody Of Stricken Daughter

CHICAGO (AP)—The parents of Cheryl Lynn Labrenz, nine-day-old girl who is suffering from an RH blood condition, lost an attempt Thursday to regain her custody.

Cheryl Lynn was placed in the custody of a family court guardian Wednesday after her parents refused on religious grounds to permit her to have a blood transfusion. Doctors had said the transfusion was necessary to save the child's life.

Cheryl Lynn was reported improved immediately after the first blood transfusion which had been approved by the court guardian. The parents, Darrell, 25, and

Rhoda, 20, members of Jehovah's Witnesses, maintain blood transfusions violate biblical directives against "blood eating."

Justice Walker V. Shafer of the Illinois supreme court denied the motion which would have returned the child to her parents until the supreme court could decide on the issue.
