The meeting held at 1:30 p.m. May 9th between the Conciliator, the Union and the Company followed the usual pattern.

Once more the Committee did nothing but talk about past grievances. The Company pointed out that any grievances that had been presented to the Management had been taken care of very satisfactorily. To this the Committee had to agree. The Company pointed out very emphatically that any foreman or supervisor who interfered with grievance procedure was subject to dismissal.

It was the opinion of the Conciliator that there was nothing wrong with the grievance procedure, provided it was followed, that existed under the old contract, which is the same as that offered by the Company in the proposed new contract. The Conciliator also informed the Committee that there was nothing the Company could do when the Company knew nothing of a grievance.

John Gamblin of the Willamette Valley District Council, as spokesman for the Union, informed the Company that the Union insisted on complete capitulation, and that the Union would not even consider submitting a new proposal. In other words, it was up to the Company to accept the Union proposal as it stood. The Company informed the Union that their proposal was illegal and that the Company would not consider giving in to any of the Union's ridiculous demands. Further that the last Company proposal, a copy of which you have, still stood

Your prospects of returning to work under the Union's demands are just the same as the day you were called out on strike. As told you in previous letters, all the Company hears in these meetings is arguments about grievances and criticism of foremen and supervisors.

This can continue indefinitely. How do you expect to ever return to work? You should know by this time that the Company cannot possibly consider the Union agreement or operate under it. You can live under the Company contract and live well. Yet the Union continues on a one-way deal. That is out.

When you realize that the Company cannot consider an agreement under which it cannot operate, and that is all that your Union is offering, you will realize that you will never go back to work under those conditions. There is something you can do about it if you put your shoulders to the wheel and in the right direction.

You have been out seven weeks now. How much have you lost and how much are you going to lose?
