W. Washington Fir Workers Get Wage Increase

SEATTLE — (AP) — An eight-cent hourly wage increase was announced here for 15,000 western Washington fir workers.

Earl Hartley, president of the Puget sound district council of the Lumber & Sawmill Workers' union (AFL), said the agreement was reached with the Lumbermen's Industrial Relations committee, Inc.

Hartley said the union would seek a similar increase in negotiations with representatives of plywood mills.

The increase is the fourth granted the fir workers in the last year for a total of 31 cents an hour. The lumber workers were given 10 1/2 cents a year ago, five cents last September, and seven and a half cents in March.

The March increase and the new eight-cent boost must be approved by the Wage Stabilization board. The March boost now is before the board. The new raise, if approved, would be retroactive to May 1.

Hartley said the raises would establish a minimum hourly scale of $1.76 and an average scale of $2.01 in AFL operations.

An employer spokesman said the agreement establishes parity between the AFL union and the International Woodworkers of America (CIO), the other large union in the industry.

The IWA was given a 12 1/2 cent hourly increase and three additional paid holidays, effective April 1.

Most of the world's wool, according to the National Geographic Society, comes from the southern hemisphere.

Students, Actors Give Rotarians Lively Session

Six student Rotarians, with an assist from two members of the Grants Pass dramatics group last night, assumed responsibility for running the Rotary noon luncheon and program Thursday and did a bang-up job of it, if the applause by adult Rotarians was any indicator.

Dave Stanger, a member of the troupe, introduced Ray Appler, a professional actor with the group, who provided the feature of the program by his narration of incidents in the life of a theatrical person, many of which were received with bursts of laughter from the audience.

Ken Briggs presided over the meeting, substituting for Rotary President Walt Mallory. Vice Sanders led the singing; Bob Sullivan introduced visiting Rotarians; Ed Stritzke, who filled in for Master-at-Arms Bill Clarenbach, had a busy time collecting the fines assessed by Briggs; Lauren Loveland introduced the actors who gave the program; and Vernon Thompson, current student Rotarian, gave a report on student activities.

Student Rotarians are selected by a committee of teachers at Roseburg high school and are picked on a representative basis. They serve a one-month term at Rotary meetings, reporting student activities.

Appler, who played the part of "Blossom" in the comedy-drama presented Thursday night in the Senior high auditorium under the auspices of the Umpqua chapter of the National Honor society, amused the audience with stories of his experiences as a touring actor with a New York summer stock theater troupe. He goes back east every summer to participate.

Appler related an incident in which a New Yorker, hearing that he was an Oregonian, asked, "That's the place where you carry a gun around, isn't it?" The New Yorker was amazed to learn that Oregon had paved streets and electricity.

In summing up the theatrical life Appler said it was "trying at times" and "I just get much sleep."

DIAL-LOG

BORGE ON BASEBALL: "The thing I liked most about seeing my first baseball game," he said, "was that everybody and everything was so informal. One time a man — he was carrying a big box in front of him — a man I was sure I had never seen — came right up to me and said 'Frank' . . . I said 'I beg your pardon?'" . . . and he said 'Frank Furter.' I didn't want to be snobbish, so I got up and said 'Victor Borge — glad to meet you!'"

"Also, there was a woman sitting above me, and she must have been very near sighted because she kept mistaking me for a relative. Whenever something would happen on the field, she would slap me on the back and say, 'Oh, brother, Oh, brother.'"

"My first experience in baseball games was not too satisfying. To me the game seemed much too short. I had only been there about seven minutes when all of a sudden the batter hit the ball too hard; the ball went out of sight; and suddenly everyone was running wildly on the field; and everyone in the stands was shouting 'Go home — go home!'" . . . and so I rushed out to the bus because I wanted to be sure to get a seat going home!"

TONIGHT: The sweetest music this side of heaven will be heard at 8:00. The Guy Lombardo show, narrated by David Ross, is rapidly winning new friends.

From the KRNR studios at 8:30 will be music students in recital. The students are those of Mrs. Charles Hill, every other Friday night. Guests are welcome in the studio to see and hear the youngsters perform.

And there will be more youthful talent at 10:45 tonight when high school students act as disc jockeys on "Night Watch." The Roseburg high school boys and ladies pick their own music and build their own shows, which are presented each Friday night.

TOMORROW: Fun With Words from the KRNR studio at 10:30 a. m. Bob McCall emcees the younger school children program with Lyle Fenner acting fatherly towards the participants.

Former Croation Official Arrested

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Andrija Artukovich, wartime minister of interior in the Axis puppet state of Croatia, is at liberty on $1,000 bail today, pending a hearing to show cause why he should not be deported.

Artukovich entered the United States in 1948 on a visitor's permit and was granted extensions.

Marshal Tito's Yugoslav government has asked for his deportation as a war criminal. Croatia now is a part of Yugoslavia.

Immigration officials arrested Artukovich on their own initiative. He had given testimony at a closed hearing last Monday on his application for permanent residence in the United States. Congress would have the final say on whether he could remain.

Howard L. Field, acting regional director of the bureau of immigration and naturalization, says Artukovich's arrest doesn't mean his application for permanent residence had been denied.

Vatican's Swiss Guards Induct 28 Recruits

VATICAN CITY — (AP) — To the roll of drums and squeal of pipes, the Swiss guard today performed the ancient ceremony inducting 28 recruits into its ranks.

The ceremony is held annually on May 6, anniversary of the stand made in 1527 against the Germans, in which 147 Swiss guards lost their lives. Their sacrifice gave Pope Clement VII time to escape by an underground passage from the Vatican palace to the fortress of Castel Sant' Angelo.

One by one, as their names were called, each new guard stepped forward, placed his left hand on the striped Swiss guard flag, raised his right hand and swore to defend the Pope.

The recruits brought the guards' total membership to 96.
