Farm Bureau's Head Hits Price, Wage Controls

All segments of U. S. economy were urged to end price and wage controls on their expiration date of June 30, by Oregon Farm Bureau President Marshall Swearingen. He addressed officers and members of Douglas and Josephine County Farm Bureaus at their regional meeting Monday evening in the Grange Supply building.

Speaking on "Common Sense Inflation versus Politically Inspired Price and Wage Controls," Swearingen said the nation could be strengthened by a free choice system that has given it world leadership.

"Our present objective is two fold," he stated. "We seek to avoid a third world war and we want to preserve our American way." In his opinion we cannot do the one without doing the other.

"Our only hope of maintaining and enhancing our strength to a degree to discourage aggression is to build our own system and to continue in an atmosphere of individual liberty and incentive to do the things at which we excel," he added.

According to Swearingen, price controls are not the solution. They decrease the supply of items needed by consumers and use a reservoir of manpower in regulatory control, which could be employed in industry producing goods necessary to end the conflict. He said the answer is in a common sense inflation control program that includes (1) increased production, (2) strict governmental economy, (3) pay-as-we-go taxation, (4) effective credit controls and (5) sound management of the public debt.

"The test rests with the average American today," Swearingen concluded. "do we lighten our belt, work longer and harder, and come out a free people where a man's soul is his own? Or do we follow the black road to financial and moral ruin?"

Communists Maneuver For Major Assault

Fourth field armies — met in Pieping with the Soviet commander of the Dairen area.

It was agreed, the report added, that the Chinese would launch their first attack to take Seoul with 370,000 men.

In the second phase, they would ram in another 350,000 troops and strike for T'aejon, about 90 air miles southeast of Seoul.

The third wave would throw more than 1,000,000 Reds into the final push to drive soldiers of 14 United Nations into the sea.

If the first fighting did not go well, the report said, then the Soviets would bolster the Chinese air force for later phases.

In these massed assaults, the Chinese soldier is used as a sort of kamikaze infantryman.

He is given up to 10 days rest, a few hand grenades and — if lucky — a rifle, burpgun or machinegun.

His unit then is launched at the Allied lines. When it is shot to pieces another unit attacks. Then another, and another, in human sea waves.

Two Truck Bills Face Referendum

SALEM, (AP) — A referendum attack was launched here Monday against bills to increase truck taxes, reduce the load limits for log trucks, and to levy stiff penalties for overloading.

The preliminary referendum petitions were filed with the State department by Douglas E. Savoy, Portland, publisher of the State Review, a newspaper which serves the logging industry.

If 15,000 signatures are obtained on the petitions by August 1, then the bills would be on the November, 1952, election ballot. They couldn't become law until the people voted.

One bill, house bill 465, increases truck taxes about $1,600,000 a year. However, no referendum is planned against a companion bill, which would reduce the license plate fees for trucks about $600,000 a year.

So, while the legislature intended by the two bills to bring about an overall $1,000,000 annual increase, a successful referendum attack on H.B. 465 would actually result in a $600,000 reduction.

The two bills together would result in an average truck tax increase of 7 percent, but with a 35 percent boost for the big long-haul trucks.

The other bill being attacked, house bill 462, would abolish the 10 percent "tolerance" for log trucks. Under this tolerance, the log truckers have been allowed to carry loads up to 10 percent over-weight without penalty.
