Cut Prices Here By Meyer Store Reflects "War"

The price war that has swept the country since the supreme court decision nullifying the fair trade laws, hits Roseburg today when the Fred Meyer store will put drastic cuts into effect on scores of items heretofore priced fixed.

The cuts will run the gamut of fair trade items in major and small appliances, variety, drugs, cosmetics, remedies, auto supply, photo supply and other lines. Some cutbacks in major appliances will run as much as $100.

Fred Meyer, in announcing the cutback program in all his stores, says he is merely reverting to his original basis of doing business by selling on the policy of large volume and small markup. The program, he says, was interfered with in many items by the fair trade laws.

"For years," he says, "we have fought a losing battle against price fixing under the so-called fair trade laws. Now that they have been kicked out, we intend to go back to our original policy of markup only to the extent that will bring a nominal margin. We feel that, if through efficient and economical methods, we can sell for less, we are entitled to do so and to give the buyer the benefit of the saving."
