

Fifty Floats Already Listed For Rodeo Parade Saturday; Cash Prizes Await Winners

With the scheduled Rodeo parade just three days off, 50 float entries are listed — but there's room for more. Parade Chairman John Hardiman revealed Tuesday afternoon that although tonight is listed as the float entry deadline, late entries will be received at Lawson's Jewelry or Roy's Men's store.

Non-commercial float entries have been made by such groups as Beta Alpha Chi, Epsilon Sigma, Knights of Pythias, Camp Fire Girls, the Red Cross and many others. Practically all the local car dealers are entering commercial floats, and other commercial entries have been made by Sally Hill's Studio of Dance Arts, and Dairy Queen, to name two.

From out of town, The Grants Pass Cavemen and the Eugene Whiskerlantes will participate in the parade. Hardiman stated that although entries may still be received after the deadline date, the Junior chamber of commerce is anxious to get all entries listed in order to plan the parade, which it promises will be both long and colorful.

Hardiman reported that 12 judges will be stationed along the route of the parade to determine the winners of the 10 cash prizes totalling almost $500. The biggest plum at stake is a $100 grand sweepstake award for the outstanding entry. Separate prizes of $75, $50 and $10 will go to the first, second and third place winners in each of the three float divisions. The divisions are non-commercial, commercial and out-of-town.

Money from commercial entry fees will go to cover the cash awards. A $15 fee is being levied on each float entered by a wholesale or retail business establishment.

At 11 a. m. Saturday, the parade will start moving up Jackson street from the triangle on Jackson and E. 2nd Avenue South. The route then turns right on Lane to Rose street and right on Rose to Douglas, where the procession disbands.

Swimming Pool Proves Popular; Teaching Slated

The Roseburg municipal swimming pool is proving very popular this season with 7,811 paid admissions in the first two weeks—nearly twice as many as attended last year at this time, reports Lyle Eddy, director of the pool. These do not include the 140 youths taking swimming lessons.

A staff of four instructors is handling eight Red Cross swimming classes each week-day morning from 11 to 1 p. m. They are Mrs. G. L. Hayes, Mrs. K. H. Oakley, Mrs. Margaret Siefarth and Eddy.

Swimming classes conducted by Merin Donaldson, secretary of the Roseburg YMCA, start Monday. The pool is open from 1:15 to 10 p. m. every day. No swimming classes are conducted Saturday and Sunday.

Red Cross swimming classes at present are divided into six for beginners and two intermediates. A course in junior life-saving will start as soon as enough have been registered in it, said Eddy. Senior life-saving will start July 2. Anyone interested in any of these classes should call the local Red Cross, he noted.

Two special events are coming up at the pool. One is a class in girls' water ballet, which will be conducted by Mrs. Siefarth, starting July 2. A special course for instructors is slated for July 23 to 28, with a special instructor from San Francisco scheduled to direct it. The minimum age for entering the course is 18 years and the applicant must have passed senior lifesaving.

Swim Course Still Open There is still room for boys and girls from the ages of eight to 14 in the YMCA "learn-to-swim" course, which starts Monday at the pool, reports Donaldson.

The classes continue to July 6 with hours from 10 a. m. to 10:30 a. m. The course is under the direction of Donaldson, a certified YMCA aquatic instructor, who has had 20 years experience in teaching swimming and diving.

He was a coach at Los Angeles City college for several years and taught at the Surf and Sand club at Hermosa Beach, Calif. The beginner's course will include all necessary skills to insure a natural sequence.

Those completing the course will be given membership in the YMCA Minnow club. Instruction will be given later in the advanced clubs of Fish, Flying Fish, and Shark, which include diving and advanced swimming. Friday is the last day to sign up for the course in order to be included in the first group starting Monday. The YMCA office is in the Roseburg armory. Parents must sign for entry of children into the course.

Jailed For Bad Conduct Municipal Judge Ira B. Riddle Wednesday committed Curtis Arley Lyle, 48, Roseburg, to the city jail for 10 days in lieu of a $20 fine on a disorderly conduct charge.

Specialty Acts Will Feature Rodeo Program

men in his field and a former rodeo competitor.

The Bus Carson family troupe is only one of 10 specialty acts to be presented in the rodeo Saturday and Sunday. Others include Roseburg's own Jackie Carstens, a top rodeo trick rider in his own right; Little Brown Jug Reynolds, better known as "Little Beaver" of the movies, an excellent trick rider also; Pat Henry and his trick horse Gold Tony; drills by the Douglas county Sheriff's posse, and several types of races.

These include the Douglas county saddle horse race, stake races between different posers, the pony express race, the chariot race, and the squaw race. The posers of Douglas and Josephine counties and the Myrtle Creek Saddle club will be participating in the races. W. H. "Doc" Carter foresees hot competition in the chariot race, which Douglas county won last year by a close margin over Myrtle Creek. The latter team has been practicing hard in anticipation of nipping the Douglas county posse this year, he reports.

Cash Awaits Top Stars The real rodeo fans will be interested in the six main events designed to test the skill of cowboys. Cash prizes totalling $500 will be given to the winners in each of the six events which are: bareback riding, saddle bronc riding, bull riding, calf roping, daily team tying and bull dogging. In addition, a lamb scramble is set Saturday and the calf scramble will be the final Sunday event.

The antics of a clown, whose name has not yet been announced, and bull-fighting will be other special attractions. The rodeo starts at 1:30 p. m. both days.

A Douglas county registered horse show is slated Sunday at 1 p. m., just before the rodeo gets underway. It is purely an exhibition. All Douglas county registered horses should be at the fairgrounds not later than 12:30 for this event.

To get the rodeo off to a good start, the first event at 1:30 p. m. Saturday when the Sheriff's posse rodeo gets underway, will be the coronation of Queen Sharon I (Fingerlos) and her court. Members of the court are Susan Schafer, 18, Camas Valley; Loretta Fery, 16, Roseburg; and Rita Kruse, 20, Yoncalla.

Circuit Court Has Three New Suits

Daniel Steinmetz of Steinmetz Motors filed suit Tuesday in circuit court to recover $146.40 allegedly owed on a promissory note by Warren F. Burke. The plaintiff also asks $75 attorney's fees.

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company filed suit Tuesday to quiet title against Anwyld Hamilton and 34 others on property in Hamilton's Addition. The property in question involves lots 1, 2, 3 and 4 in block 4 of Hamilton's addition to the City of Roseburg.

Charles W. Epperson filed suit against the Oregon State Industrial Accident Commission for increased disability payments. Epperson asks for total disability payments or, as an alternative, 100 percent loss of an arm.

A Klamath county circuit court judgment awarded him 35 percent disability on July 13, 1950. He had been awarded a 15 percent disability by the commission in February, 1949.

The complaint filed in court states Epperson's disability is the result of any injury received when he fell from a board while working as a Klamath county school district laborer.

Former Tennis Resident Drowns in Boat Mishap

A former Tennis and Camas Valley resident, Clarence Anderson, 25, was drowned at Wrangell, Alaska, on May 20 when a boat in which he was riding capsized. He was returning to work with three other men when the boat overturned. One man swam to shore for help, but when he returned the men had disappeared. The boat was found 12 miles from the scene of the accident; and a lunch pail was found in the water. Anderson worked in logging camps around Tennis and at Camas mountain. At one time he lived with Norman and Eugene Carr of Tennis.

He was born in Scofield, Ore., but lived most of his life in Coos Bay. Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Anderson, North Bend; two sisters and a brother, Arthur, Wrangell, Alaska.

More Donations Of Blood Desired For Reserve Bank

Douglas county hospitals use an average of 30 to 40 pints of blood each month from the Portland blood bank, according to Mrs. Albert Micelli, chairman of the blood bank committee.

Mrs. Micelli said a good portion of the blood contributed by Roseburg residents is returned to the county for local use.

However, due to the need of blood in Korea, the Portland blood bank is not overstocked. Mrs. Micelli said the last call to Portland for blood by a local hospital could not be filled and the blood had to be contributed on the spot by local donors.

The quota for blood donation Thursday afternoon, when the Red Cross bloodmobile will be in the city, has been set at 200 pints. So far the number of donors who have signed up does not reach that figure, the Red Cross reported.

The Red Cross wishes to sign up about 225 donors—the additional 25 to make up for possible rejections. To avoid congestion at certain hours, the Red Cross has asked all donors to arrange for a definite time to appear at the Elk's temple Thursday from 2 to 6 p. m., when the blood will be taken.

The bloodmobile, working north from Josephine county, will arrive with a doctor and eight nurses. A total of 14 are traveling with the unit.

Five girls have entered the queen contest and are selling tickets, which will determine the winner. The girls are Charlie Seaton, Carole Clifton, Jackie Clearman, Johnnie Gordon, Yoncalla and Caroline Hill, Drain.

Rhoda Rychard, a member of the saddle club, reports that work on the grounds is nearing completion. The calf pens have been built and workmen have started the bucking chutes. Seats were moved to the new grounds, and new reserved seats are being constructed in the shade. A well has been drilled.

Double Tragedy Follows Mail Order Marriage

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb. — (AP) — The body of a 57-year-old farmer was found hanging in a shed Tuesday night not far from where his German bride of nine months lay in a pool of blood, her head split open with an axe.

Sheriff Steve Warrick said it was a case of attempted murder and suicide. The dead man was Ben Specht. His wife, Elizabeth, 58, was reported close to death in a Scottsbluff hospital early today.

The couple had married last October culminating a two-year courtship through the mails. Mrs. Specht had never seen her future husband when she came from her home in Germany to marry him.

Angling Without License Costs Couple $25 Each

Fishing in the North Umpqua river without licenses cost Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Hilton of Spokane, Wash., $25 each Tuesday in Sutherlin justice court, according to justice of the Peace Ward Watson.

They were arrested by state police after they had been found fishing without licenses about one-fourth mile below Glide. They told police they found "the temptation too great," when they had set up camp by the river near Glide.

Series Of Thefts Admitted By Boys To Local Police

Two teen-age escapeses from the Chehalis, Wash., Boys Training school, ages 17 and 18, apprehended in Roseburg Tuesday after a long list of escapes and auto thefts, are being held in the county jail today for Washington State authorities.

In a signed statement to city and state police, the youths admitted breaking out of the training school June 15, escaping from the Chehalis county jail two days later and stealing automobiles in Chehalis, Castle Rock and Kelso, Wash., and at Albany and Eugene.

When apprehended in Roseburg, the 17-year-old boy admitted in a statement that he was about to steal another car, Chief L. J. Larsen said.

The 17-year-old youth, who gave the statement to police, said he escaped from the training school June 15 by hitting a guard over the head with a large table lamp. He had been committed to the school for burglary and auto theft, police said.

The younger boy accompanied him. In Chehalis they ransacked autos and early the next morning were picked up by Chehalis police as they were walking down a railroad track. They broke out of the city jail a day later, Sunday, by breaking the plaster around an air vent.

Then, they said, they obtained a car and wrecked it in a collision between Toledo and Castle Rock, Wash., and took to the brush afoot without stopping. At Castle Rock, they continued, they stole another car, which they abandoned when it developed motor trouble near Kelso, Wash. They picked up still another car at Kelso, then proceeded southward, stealing cars at Albany and at Eugene, according to their statement to police.

Alertness on the part of Merchant Patrolman Lloyd Leonard resulted in their arrest in Roseburg at 3 a. m. Tuesday. Leonard first saw them when they came out of the Propane Gas Co., where they admitted taking a cigarette lighter.

Leonard questioned them and reported to police. The youths broke away but Leonard accosted them at a red light. There they abandoned the car and fled on foot in opposite directions. Both were apprehended about 15 minutes later by city police who arrived on the scene and by Leonard. The older youth admitted he was in the act of stealing another car when finally arrested.

Owner of the car stolen in Eugene arrived in Roseburg Tuesday to pick up his car.

The youths admitted entering a radio shop and taking a radio at Albany. The radio was found in the car when it was abandoned, according to Larsen.

Kiwanians Fined For Not Wearing Western Attire

"Horseplay" and talks on the coming rodeo and ice cream featured the weekly Kiwanis club luncheon Tuesday noon in the Hotel Umpqua.

As the Kiwanians sat down to eat, a host of Paul Bunyans swept into the room and hustled out six members, Al Henninger, Fred Lockwood, Herb Weisberger, L. W. Josse, R. D. Bridges and Bob Bashford.

They were taken outside to the Paul Bunyan "jail" and fined for not being properly attired in western style dress. The proceedings were broadcast by KBNR to the hotel dining room.

When they returned, President J. E. Slattery appointed them as a jury to impose a penalty upon Paul Geddes, who came in late and was improperly attired, and a fellow attorney, R. S. Whipple, also in conventional clothing. They were fined $3 each, or $6, the total fine of the six Kiwanians imposed by the Paul Bunyan kangaroo court.

Frank Denton, secretary of the Sheriff's posse, spoke on the rodeo and what it has to offer. He said a much improved show is anticipated. He listed added attractions as including a 12-piece school brass band, directed by E. G. Stiles; acts by Little Beaver, who was here last year; acts by Pat Henry and his trained horse, which can lasso a calf with a rope and do 30 other tricks; acts by the Carson family, funny ropers; clown antics; trick riding by Roseburg's Jackie Carstens; calf and lamb scramble, and the cowboy breakfast served from 7 to 11 Sunday morning.

Calvin Baird, former police chief and now public relations man for Umpqua dairy, discussed the history of ice cream making, in observance of the 100th anniversary of ice cream's introduction into the United States. He told of early efforts to make frozen foods, dating back to the days of Nero and the Roman gladiators, when snow was mixed with fruit juices for deserts. Marco Polo experimented with frozen fruit juices.

Also, he said, in the 1700's certain royal courts of Europe had recipes for royal functions in which frozen cream, milk and fruits were ingredients. Ice cream in different versions was served some in the United States as early as the 1700's.

It was not until the 1800's that ice cream really got a start. It was a slow process and made by hand freezeers. Today 7 1/2 million quarts of ice cream are manufactured. The industry uses 50 million pounds of fruit and eight million pounds of nuts annually, said Baird.
