Spanish-Speaking Players Spark Chicago

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK — (AP) — Major league baseball players traditionally come from American sandlots — but not so the brilliant Spanish-speaking sparks of the Chicago White Sox.

There is Chico Carrasquel, rated by some the best shortstop in the business. He came up via Caracas, Venezuela.

There is Oristes Minoza, the Cuban speedster. He is battling for the league batting championship and is a speed demon as well.

And to the list must now be added Luis Aloma, another Cuban, who pitched a shutout Sunday in his first big league start to bring a much needed victory over the Athletics.

Frank Lane, general manager of the White Sox, is proudest of his deal that brought Carrasquel to the team from the Brooklyn Dodger organization.

"Funny thing," Lane recalled, "Branch Rickey was trying to peddle us Sam Jethroe, the outfielder and Dan Bankhead, the pitcher, both of whom were with Montreal. But we were looking for a replacement for shortstop Luke Appling."

"Rickey had five shortstops — Bobby Morgan, Rocky Bridges, Danny O'Connell, Buddy Hicks and Chico Carrasquel. He asked for a quarter of a million dollars for Morgan and so on. He rated Carrasquel fourth or fifth."

"The one man I wanted was Carrasquel. I knew about him from an umpire who had seen him in Venezuela in the winter. But I didn't dare tip my hand. Otherwise, the price would be doubled or tripled."

So Rickey and Lane talked and talked. Lane departed eventually and Rickey had the impression that the White Sox had agreed to take Jethroe and Bankhead. Carrasquel, Rickey just couldn't remember. A few days later, Lane phoned him.

"Branch," he said, "when can I announce the purchase of Carrasquel to the newspapers?"

"How about Jethroe and Bankhead," countered Rickey.

"Let's discuss that later," said the smooth Mr. Lane. "right now I'm interested in Carrasquel. You gave me your promise on him."

"I did?" boomed the puzzled deacon. "I don't remember. But if you say that we made the deal, we made it. I never go back on my word. He's yours."

That's how the White Sox got Carrasquel. The price tag was $30,000. Manager Paul Richards says he is the greatest shortstop he has ever seen. He batted .282 last year, his freshman season. In the field, he covers tremendous ground. He is a floater who eases effortlessly into position for impossible stops.

Chico, who has a great sense of humor, couldn't speak a word of English when he first arrived. His vocabulary has improved only slightly since. But that has been no hindrance.

"The ball she speak no English," he says. "The bat she speak no English. So what?"

Minoza Popular
Carrasquel got a break when the White Sox landed Minoza. Now he has a Spanish speaking teammate. Minoza has been with the Sox less than two months but already he rivals Carrasquel as the most popular player on the club.

The ever-laughing Minoza, in a short time, has become the stand-out player on the squad, his shoulders are so broad that he looks bigger than he is at 5-10 and 180 pounds. He hits a ball with tremendous power and he can run like a deer. He throws with strength and accuracy.

"The best deal we ever made was getting Minoza," said Richards. "I wouldn't trade him for anyone in the league. I first saw him on the coast. He was playing with San Diego. One day he'd be at third base, the next in the outfield. But no matter where he was, he was always beating us with a long hit or a great catch. What drew me to him was his great desire to win. I don't believe there is a player today who can give you the thrill Minoza can."

The most humiliating episode in young Minoza's brief professional career came last Thursday when he was ejected from a game by Umpire Joe Paparella for "cussing" over a decision.

Minoza had been picked off second base. He put up a mild squawk before returning sheepishly to the bench. The whole thing appeared forgotten until suddenly, as Minoza was returning to his position in right field in between innings, Paparella thumbed him out of the game.

"Why he kick me out," cried Minoza later with tears in his eyes. "I no say nothing to heem. When I go back to outfield I talk but only to myself. And I say it in Spanish. He no understand Spanish. I no call him had names or anything I call myself. I always mad at myself when I make a mistake."

Rogovin Hurls Chisox To Win Over Yanks

Sox Regain Safe Lead; Pirates Win

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
Saul Rogovin, Bob Cain, Sam Chapman, Tommy Brown and Don Johnson know it was true when the man said: "All you need is a change of scenery."
Most ball players hear that cheerless message from the front office, sooner or later. Usually it's the kiss of death, meaning you're through, bud. Get moving.
In the cases of Rogovin, Cain, Chapman, Brown and Johnson it seems to mean the dawn of a new life. They're all red hot.

Just take a look at what happened yesterday.
1. Rogovin, traded by Detroit to Chicago May 15, choked off the New York Yankees with four hits, 5-2, restoring the White Sox' lead to 3½ games. It was his third win and fifth complete game in his new uniform.

2. Cain, sent to Detroit in the Rogovin deal, polished off Philadelphia, 9-2, his fifth win since he left Chicago.

3. Chapman, sold to Cleveland by Philadelphia in mid May, caught fire at Fenway park in the Tribe's 8-4 victory. He drove home three with a double and then stole home in the first inning. Later he knocked in another run. Since he joined the Indians he has hit four homers. With the A's he had none.

4. Brown, the perpetual juvenile hope at Brooklyn, finally heard the "change of scenery" routine June 7 when the Dodgers sold him to the Phils. Installed at second base by Eddie Sawyer, he came through with a grand slam home run in yesterday's 10-3 romp over Pittsburgh.

5. Johnson, clicking for his old Yankee boss, Bucky Harris, now that both are in Washington, turned in a six-hitter against St. Louis last night for his third straight win. In between the Yanks and Senators, Johnson did a turn with St. Louis which sold him to Washington May 29.

Recently traded stars did not rate such important roles in the other major league games played yesterday when the St. Louis Cards' Gerry Staley blanked the New York Giants, 2-0, on five hits and Brooklyn's Preacher Roe spun his 10th straight by subduing Cincinnati, 6-4, with ninth-inning help from Carl Erskine.

A scheduled Boston at Chicago game in the National was rained out after one inning with the Braves on top 1-0.

Rogovin's brilliant performance at Yankee stadium yesterday was a big win for the White Sox, enabling them to split a vital series on the road.

Nellie Fox Opens
Little Willie Pines and Red Robinson led the 13-hit blast against Spec Shea and two others. After Fox opened with a triple and scored on a fly, the Yanks never did catch up, despite two homers by Johnny Mize.

The 122,566 skeptical fans who saw the four-game series came away convinced the White Sox are no fly-by-nights but a serious permanent threat.

Brown showed the way for the Pirates with his first-inning homer with the bases full. Bill Nicholson and Willie Jones also homered as the Phils swept the three-game series and sneaked into fourth place. Robin Roberts rode home easy with a 12-hitter for his eighth win. Rookie Paul Lapalme was the loser.

The Dodgers stretched their National league lead to 6½ games on Roy's 10th straight victory. Staley had a big day for himself, winning No. 9 with a shutout

Chiefs Play Two Games Next Week

Two stormy games with Southwestern Oregon league competition are slated for the Umpqua Chiefs in the next week, but only one counts as league standings.

The league counter is this Sunday's tilt on Finlay field between the Chiefs and Myrtle Creek at 2 p.m. Myrtle Creek has shown increasing strength with the addition of three Oregon State college athletes to the roster, although Medford swamped the Douglas county crew last weekend. In the last meeting the Chiefs weren't even pressed for competition, but this was before the team had played a game. The Chiefs still reign as heavy favorites, but it should be a tougher game than before.

For several reasons the mid-week battle between Coquille and Roseburg commands a lot of interest. In the first place, the tough Loggers are ranking over a 6-5 league win last Sunday after they had defeated the Chiefs in a non-league tilt the night before. In the second place, it will be the first worthwhile midweek game on Finlay field this season.

Chandler Leaves Baseball July 15
CINCINNATI — (AP) — A. B. Chandler resigned Thursday as baseball commissioner effective July 15.

The former Kentucky governor and senator who had held the commissioner's job since 1945, made his announcement at a conference with Warren Giles, president of the Cincinnati Reds and a member of baseball's executive committee.

Baseball club owners twice refused to renew his contract which will end next April 30.

He said baseball also had agreed to indemnify Chandler for any personal losses he might suffer in connection with various damage suits now pending against baseball.

He said the executive committee would govern baseball from the time Chandler's resignation becomes effective until a new commissioner is selected.

In addition to Giles, executive council members are Tom Yawkey of the Boston Red Sox; Ford Frick, president of the National League and Will Harridge, president of the American League.

Chandler said he did not have any plans for the future. He described as "pure bunk" a report he might take a job with the Mutual Broadcasting system.

IDAHOO GETS COACH
MOSCOW, Idaho — (AP) — University of Idaho reached into the Big Ten Thursday to complete its 1951 football coaching staff.

Charles Gottfried, former University of Illinois football captain and assistant during spring practice to Ray Eliot there, was named to the Vandal staff as line coach.

He completed his college football at Illinois in 1949, playing as a guard.

Junior Legion Plays Tonight
Hal Zuercher's Roseburg Junior Legion squad trots onto Finlay field tonight at 8, determined to get its first earned win of the season at the expense of Myrtle Creek.

"We're going to play this one to win," Zuercher reported after Tuesday practice. He said he will probably open with Wayne Witcher, one of Roseburg high school's mainstays, on the mound.

A win by the Roseburg squad would lift it into a tie with Myrtle Creek for second place in the district. Drain is currently leading the league. Myrtle Creek has won two games, one by forfeit, and lost one. Roseburg's only win in three came as the result of a forfeit.

In the last meeting of the squads, Myrtle Creek won 3-1 on its home field.

The 850 points in 12 league games scored during the 1950-51 basketball season by Columbia was an all-time Ivy League record.

Rainiers Fail Against Seals

The Seattle Rainiers had their lead bobbed to a game and a half and the Hollywood Stars took over third place outright in last night's Pacific Coast league home run festival.

The doddering San Francisco Seals arose from their death bed long enough to smite the Rainiers 8-6 and 9-6 in a night double header.

Hollywood made it three straight wins over Portland by trimming the Beavers, 4-2.

Sacramento missed a chance to gain additional ground by succumbing 10-1 to the Los Angeles Angels and the knuckle ball of Warren Hacker. The right hander allowed only four hits and no earned runs.

Oakland slipped to fourth place when Joe Rowell drilled a home run in the ninth inning to give San Diego a 4-3 triumph over the Acuras.

Game Stopped
The second game at San Francisco had to be stopped after eight innings because of the curfew rule, but as far as the Rainiers were concerned it didn't make much difference. Dario Lodigiani won the first game for the Seals with a three-run round-tripper in the bottom of the eighth, an over-time inning occasioned when Jim Bredeweser tied the score in the seventh with another San Francisco homer.

All the runs in the Portland-Hollywood contest were scored on homers.

Blows by Lou Stringer and George Schmees produced Hollywood's four tallies in the fifth

Local League Split Into 2 Divisions

The YMCA Twilight league has been separated into two divisions to be called the Church and Industrial division. Each is comprised of eight teams.

YMCA Director Merlin Donaldson made the disclosure Tuesday and reported that the winners in each division would play a series at the end of the season to determine the league champion.

For the fifth consecutive week the Christians continue to pace the church division with an unblemished record. This record was threatened last Friday when West Side slapped the leaders, 25-19, but a protest wiped the loss from the record books. The only changes in the Church division saw increasingly potent West Side move up the ladder to third from fourth and the Vets All-Stars step up to fifth from seventh.

In the Industrial division, the picture was still clouded. With only single losses on its record, the Juniors Chamber of Commerce and Umpqua Plywood vaulted into a tie for first place. Former leader, Pierce Auto, fell to third but only by a one-game margin.
