

M'Arthur's Talks In Texas Carry Political Hints

By DON WHITEHEAD
DALLAS, Tex. — (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur has left behind him in Texas a strong impression that he is embarked on a campaign to unseat the Truman administration.

The 71-year-old general's Texas speeches last week carried a hint that this may be the primary purpose behind the nation-wide tour he is reported to be planning.

MacArthur came to Texas to defend his proposal that the United Nations forces carry the Korean war against Red China—the basic issue which brought his ouster from President Truman.

But with this defense, he also opened a bitter all-out attack on administration policies both at home and abroad.

His Fort Worth speech was a blistering attack on the "drift toward Socialism" and the high cost of "bureaucracy" which he said was making the people mere servants of the state.

And he added: "This leaves the public safeguard in the direct hands of the American people in whom rests constitutionally the ultimate power to rule."

"Time and the course of events require that every citizen do his full part in this essential undertaking."

To many Texans, this appeared to be a strong suggestion from the general that the remedy for the ills he described can be found at the polls.

Ambitions Disclaimed
MacArthur has disclaimed any personal ambitions. He has said he does not intend to seek political office and his only politics are "God save America."

But his attacks on the administration could have a political effect in the months to come.

One editor remarked: "I don't think there's much doubt the general is out to unhorse the administration—even if he isn't going to try to do it as a candidate himself."

Other Texans have made similar comments in their reaction to the MacArthur visit. And there are some—even among his admirers—who believe maybe the general made a strategic error in broadening his attack to include the administration's domestic policies. Several prominent Texans have said privately they think MacArthur would have left a stronger impression behind him if he had stuck to foreign policy.

But there are others who think the general criticism of "appeasement" in the Korean war and "moral weakness" in the nation's leadership may be felt by the Truman administration for months to come.

Four John McIntyres, Then Followed Romance
BALTIMORE — (AP) — The bride was the daughter of John McIntyre, the bridegroom was John McIntyre, the bridegroom's father was John McIntyre and John McIntyre was an usher.

The wedding climaxed a mixup of five years standing over names. In 1946, letters from John McIntyre (48 Highland street) Pawtucket, R. I., kept going to his namesake, a Baltimore resident stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C. So the Baltimore John soon discovered that these Rhode Island letters signed "Dad" were meant for the Rhode Island McIntyre's son of the same name, also stationed at Fort Bragg.

The Pawtucket McIntyre eventually became interested in the Baltimore McIntyre's sister—and the wedding resulted.
