

William Scholtens Cleared In Case

William L. Scholtens has been cleared of a larceny charge in Justice of the Peace Fred Wright's court in Reedsport, according to the Port Umpqua Courier.

Scholtens had been arrested with Adrian V. Hausmann last week by state police on a warrant signed by Newton Cannon, Lakeside, and charged with the theft of personal property.

Hausmann waived preliminary hearing in Wright's court last week and has been bound over to the grand jury. He is being held in the county jail on $2,500 bail.

A two-man, four-woman jury in Reedsport Justice court found Everett E. Wright, 51, Reedsport guilty of an illegal fishing charge. He was fined $25 and costs.

Mrs. Arthur Kline, Reedsport was fined $25 and costs on a petit larceny charge. Gerald Reginald Snyder was fined $25 by Wright for failure to tag salmon caught at Winchester bay.

Wilderness Of Canada Fishermen's Destination

Three local men are departing this weekend for the wilderness areas of British Columbia on a three-weeks fishing and vacation trip.

They are Col. M. Crawford, to whom fishing and hunting in Canada is nothing new, Dr. B. R. Shoemaker and Dr. John L. Haskins. The latter is already in Portland and will be joined by the other two enroute north.

The party will travel to Kamloops, B. C., then will go up the Caribou trail as far as they can drive and take their house trailer. They will establish headquarters and from there take side trips into the numerous lakes and streams where fish and game abound.

3 LODGED IN JAIL

Three persons were lodged in the county jail early today on charges of vagrancy involving disorderly conduct, the state police report.

Arrested at 5 a. m. today were James Royal Cederstrom, 27, his wife, Laura, 26, and Jessie Patch, 51, all of Roseburg. They will be arraigned in district court today, police said.

U.N. Troops Hit Heavy Resistance

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea — (AP) — Attacking United Nations troops bumped into heavy resistance again today on the eastern Korean front, where they have been trying for three days to capture dominating high ground.

The hill mass the U. N. Allies want is northeast of Yangju. An Eighth army communique said light enemy contact was reported along the rest of the eastern front and on the central and western fronts.

U. S. B-29s hurled 100 tons of 500-pound bombs at a supply center at Chinampo, west coast port city for the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

The superforts from Gkinawa also blasted an unidentified bridge in eastern Korea.

None of the bombers encountered ground fire.

British Quakers Make Peace Bid

MOSCOW — (AP) — A group of British Quakers left for home today after hearing Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik tell them Russia is ready for "businesslike" negotiations with the West on world issues and does not want to export its revolution.

The Quakers told western newsmen yesterday that these were among replies made to a seven-point peace program they presented to Malik at a meeting Thursday night. Western observers are waiting with interest to see if the news of the Malik-Quaker talks are published in the Soviet press.

A member of the British group said he was "both encouraged and disappointed" by the interview with Malik. He said he was encouraged because of the time and attention the Soviet government had given to them and disappointed because Malik answered by merely calling attention to past Soviet statements and actions on the subject.

Western diplomats, remembering that Malik's last public statement in New York led to the Korean cease-fire talks, were highly interested in the exchange although one of them described the Quaker mission as a "very odd affair." He said the handling of foreign affairs should be left to governments and qualified experts and not to self-appointed delegations.

Douglas Embarks On Judge Fight

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Armed with a quotation from Martin Luther, Senator Douglas (D-Ill.) has embarked on what he calls a "struggle with the President" over two federal judgeship appointments.

Asserting that he had no personal resentment against President Truman and is loathe to make the fight, Douglas quoted in the original German Luther's "God helping me, I can do no other" in explaining his stand. Luther was the 16th century friar who rebelled against the authority of the pope of the Roman Catholic church and set up the reformed church.

The Illinois senator explained his stand on the judgeship controversy to a reporter after he had announced he will oppose personally the nominations of Joseph J. Drucker and Cornelius J. Harrington when they come before the senate judiciary committee next week.

The committee has invited Harrington to testify Aug. 3 and Drucker to appear Aug. 4 on their appointments to the federal bench in Chicago. The committee will hear Joseph S. Perry, Wheaton, Ill., lawyer, a third appointee supported by Douglas, Aug. 2.

Jail Threatens California Reds

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — Three women arrested here in an FBI roundup of California Communist leaders remained at liberty this morning, but were ordered behind bars by noon unless they raise additional bail.

Federal Judge Louis E. Goodman yesterday set $50,000 as bail for each of the three women and four men arrested here. That lowered the bail for the men, who had been held in lieu of $75,000. Two of the women, however, had been admitted to $2,500 bail and the third to $7,500. They contended the increased amount was "outrageous."

Judge Goodman gave them until noon to raise it.

NEW YORK — (AP) — A fourth Civil Rights Congress bail fund trustee, Abner Green, was in jail today for refusing to assist the government's hunt for a quartet of fugitive, top-rung Communists.

Jailing of Green on a contempt conviction yesterday was the top development as United States authorities pushed a home-front offensive against domestic Reds.

Another government action was a motion to force William Z. Foster, the ailing titular head of American communism, to supply a new $70,000 bail or go to jail. He currently is free on CRC bail, which has been outlawed by a federal judge.

Pick-Ups

By PAUL JENKINS

You should be on the lookout for Ken Metzler, News-Review reporter, and for me—when we start telling lies someone believes us. We'll even try and look out for ourselves, after this. Returning to the news room with a mess of fish late the other afternoon, we, as a matter of routine, related to the hard shells assembled there all the harrowing details concerning the big ones that got away, and of the tremendous thrill when we landed the biggest one from the fast water where we had hooked him, of course, with a barbless Coachman. When personal matters are involved, all newsmen lie to one another—everyone would be disappointed if we didn't.

Evidently, however, we had failed properly to sift our auditions, for in Friday's issue of the News-Review appeared a local to the effect that Ken and I had returned from a fishing trip up the North Umpqua and caught four fish. It was written by someone with a quite misplaced confidence in our veracity, to say nothing of, perhaps, our probity and even propriety. Shall I say that to our surprise we had, er, really hooked us a little fish?

Of course Ken and I had been up the North Umpqua on an entirely different sort of mission; and, chancing to stop at Mr. and Mrs. Leon Simpson's entrancing little store, The Frontier, at Honey Creek. Those most hospitable folks had presented us with half a dozen fine foot-long trout which Leon had caught in the river below his place. They were mighty good eating, too. Leon. But after that story in the News-Review for heaven's sake don't tell anyone we didn't catch them!

YOUR BODY

ROSEBURG, OREGON — (PD. ADV.) — These health articles are written by Dr. L. A. Kasparie DC., 1500 Garden Valley Road, in the interest of public health and to help you understand the body function. Look for these informative articles every Saturday.

THIS ARTICLE IS ON HIGH-LOW BLOOD PRESSURE.

High blood pressure is on the increase. Approximately 18 percent of the U. S. population will die of it or its effects. It is causing more deaths than any other disease. Modern life with its fast living and high tension, creating a state of chronic anxiety, lasting for months, may result in permanent hypertension. Primitive races seem to be free of it.

Chronic hypertension affects the heart, brain and kidneys. It may cause heart failure and increased hardening of the arteries. Increased fragility of the blood vessels and consequent breaking may cause paralysis or death. Interference with arteries nourishing the kidneys results in hypertension, caused primarily by a disturbance of their nerve supply. The more the kidneys become affected, the higher the pressure rises.

Shortness of breath on exertion, palpitation, dizziness, headaches, spots before the eyes, poor memory, irritability, cold extremities and numbness are the most prominent symptoms. Poor circulation and pains are caused by a decrease in the size of the blood vessels and loss of elasticity of their walls. Fibrous and limey deposits inside of the arteries result in hardened and brittle vessels.

More women suffer from high blood pressure than men, but it seems to be less fatal to the so-called weaker sex.

The essential hypertension of nervous patients must be given appropriate treatment to get better. Anxiety and repressed feelings, a congested liver, brain tumors, constipation, Bright's disease, will cause an elevation of pressure. This condition may shorten life.

Mild elevations seem quite prevalent during the menopause. This may not become permanent. If proper treatment is instituted at that trying period of a woman's life. Some subtle changes take place in all the tissues of the body at that time.

Life insurance companies are very critical of high blood pressure. A discrimination between a temporary and permanent high blood pressure should be made. Treatments to remove the tension, together with a balanced diet and a life free from emotional disturbances will always benefit the victim of hypertension. The less physical damage that has taken place, the more results can be expected.

Low blood pressure is a great deal less frequent than high blood pressure. The patient is usually unaware of it. Many persons complaining of cold hands and feet, muscular cramps, vague pains and aches, a tired feeling, lack of energy and ambition, headaches and inability to do a day's work are likely to be victims of low blood pressure.

Low blood pressure is compatible with a long life. The patient is less subject to hardening of the arteries. It is found in connection with various diseases. It is found in all cases of shock. Some thyroid patients suffer from it. Many thyroid patients are surprised when told they have low blood pressure. Fatty infiltration of the heart muscles is often found in such patients. Lack of tone in the blood vessels causes an accumulation of blood in the veins and slows down the circulation, interfering with the functions of the body.

Hemorrhages, anemia and a 11 wasting diseases may cause low blood pressure. Severe strains may cause dilation of the heart. Inflammation of the heart muscle weakens this organ and this will also lower the tension. The propelling force is decreased. Frequent colds, emotional upsets and disease of the adrenal glands will produce similar results.

Nervous debility, lack of sleep and deficient nutrition will end in low tension. A very common cause is an exhausted nervous system.

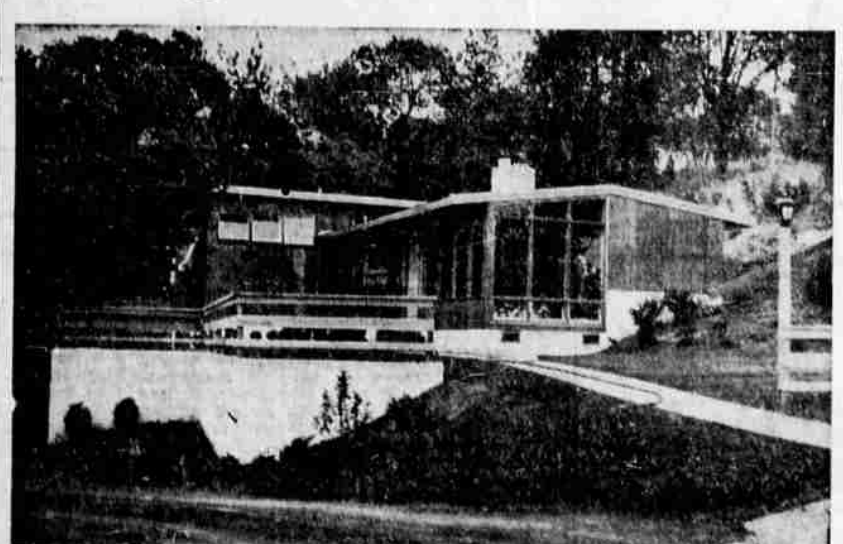

Lack of nerve force is always manifested in low pressure. Such patients are like a good car with a weak battery — every part seems to be in good condition, but the power to run the car is lacking.

A systolic pressure above 145 after middle age should be considered abnormal, while a systolic pressure of 90 indicates trouble and should not be neglected. A diastolic pressure below 60 calls for attention. The high point of pressure is reached when the heart contracts and is called the systolic pressure. The diastolic pressure is the low point between contractions. The normal diastolic pressure should be two-thirds of the systolic.

A scientific examination will ascertain the cause of abnormal blood pressure. A properly balanced diet is a MUST in all cases of abnormal blood pressure along with the proper treatments.

Next week's health article will be on stomach trouble and colitis.
