NEW FACES — Two new additions to the Barcus Sales and Service used-car selling crew are Leon Mulkey, left, and Sam Fowler. Mulkey was former employee of the company before going on a year-long jaunt over the United States. He returned, he said, because, "I can't find a better place than Roseburg." Fowler, a former employee of Carstens Furniture, is back in the field he knows best — automobiles. He was for many years a race car mechanic for Offenhausen brothers.

 The convention approved a proposal by its committee on laws dealing with apprentices. Under ITU by-laws, apprentices to journeymen printers may not be increased by hiring new apprentices to replace those called into military service. The change authorizes local unions to permit new apprentices to replace those in military service temporarily if the

State Short Of Accountants Because Pay Too Low
 SALEM — (AP) — The state cannot hire enough certified public accountants at the present salary scale, the civil service commission contends in a statement setting a hearing on the project for next Tuesday in Salem.
 The commission seeks to set up a new auditor classification and revise the present accountant and accountant - executive classifications. The decision would affect 203 positions.
 The proposal met opposition from two members of the state board of control at its meeting. Gov. Douglas McKay and Sec. of State Earl Newby said they were opposed to any state salary increases at this time. They contended that an increase in one department would lead to a demand for a general salary boost.
 The civil service commission, through its director, James Clinton, said it also is opposed to a general state salary increase.
 Clinton added that a 10 percent increase would take $7,500,000 of budgeted funds and force a reduction in the number of state employes by from 20 to 25 percent.
