

Ruling Of NLRB Against Medford Unions Sustained

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The AFL Building Trades and Central Labor councils of Medford, Ore., and four Medford AFL locals lost their appeal from a National Labor Relations board ruling which barred picketing of the Kogap Lumber Industries in a 1950 dispute.

In a decision announced here, the NLRB upheld the recommendations made by a trial examiner in May of this year.

The Kogap Lumber Industries contended that the unions were picketing to compel the company to adopt a contract containing an illegal security provision.

The union contended the pickets were protesting the company's "failure in certain instances" to pay prevailing wages.

The trial examiner ruled in favor of the company but the unions appealed the ruling. Tuesday's order upheld the trial examiner.

But the board did not pass on the issue which caused the most discussion: was the company within its rights in having its regular employees move from their accustomed jobs and build buildings and roads during a period of plant expansion?

In a footnote the board said it didn't have to decide on whether the construction unions' efforts to be recognized as representatives of the workers on those jobs were proper. Its decision on illegal security provision covered the matter, the NLRB said.

MRS. ETHEL JEWETT is pictured in the aviary at her home at 1109 Wharton avenue, surrounded by dozens of very beautiful, very expensive and very vocal canaries. Yorkshires, Hart Mountains, Red and Bronze Siskins, German Rollers and Red Factors sing in unison with many other varieties distinguished from each other by color alone. To my surprise I discovered that canaries run into real dough—some of them offered in world markets bring several hundred dollars each. Mrs. Jewett's aren't priced that high; if they were she'd be keeping them in Fort Knox instead of at home.—(Paul Jenkins)

Portland Quits Paying Indigent Hospital Bills

PORTLAND — (AP) — The Portland city council has decided it no longer would pay hospital bills for indigents. Instead it will hand the tab over the Multnomah county welfare commission.

At stake is something like $100,000 a year.

Last year the city's hospital bill for the care of indigents was $121,000. For three years the total was $239,000.

The city has paid the hospital bill, on an emergency basis, for those not regarded as eligible for welfare aid. It used to pay for as much as 60 to 90 days but in recent years that has been cut sharply and the three days has been the limit for the past year.

Former King Of Albania Buys Long Island Estate

SYOSSET, N. Y. — (AP) — Former King Zog of Albania has bought a sumptuous 60-room mansion on a 95-acre estate here on the north shore of Long Island. He may go in for farming on the side.

The exiled monarch is expected to move here with his family and a retinue of servants.

There is talk that "a bucket of diamonds and rubies" was the purchase price. But there is no official confirmation.

Ex-King Zog has been living in England and other countries since 1939, when the Italians occupied his small nation.

He would have been permitted to take the jewels out of England, although he could take out only a limited amount of cash under present restrictions.

Ex-Crater Lake Lodge Head Becomes Recluse

VERNONIA, Ore. — (AP) — A man who told state police he lived for 47 days on nothing but berries in a wild forest area near here, today is under observation at Barnes hospital in Vancouver, Wash.

The man, Marvin A. Dunn, 42, disappeared from his Portland home Aug. 3. He was discovered Tuesday by a woman fire cone picker, Mrs. Edgar Rea, Rainier.

State Pathman Claude Shaw

said Dunn seemed rational but was unable to offer any explanation for his disappearance. Dunn said he had eaten nothing but berries and had hidden in the brush whenever people came near his wooded hideout, Shaw said.

Dunn was gannet and unshaven and still wearing the same clothing he wore on the day of his disappearance.

Shaw said Dunn, a bachelor, was manager of Crater Lake lodge in 1950 and had been an accountant.
