

By MYRTLE BURR

"Art (which includes good music, of course) in this country is still regarded as a pleasant adornment... a decoration... not 'making a living,' according to a recent article in Etude.

Although our musical taste has grown a great deal in this country, we're still not fighting hard enough or making the necessary efforts to bring more and more good music to the front in our daily existence.

Many of our fine Symphony programs have been withdrawn from regular broadcast spots. And good music programs have been given a "graveyard" hour on the air. Those of us who believe in the cause of fine music should demand it of our radio stations and networks. We should support our own local musical groups... and make it a point to spread the understanding.

A good taste for art and music is the result of growth and maturity. And as a nation we must take care to grow toward such fine and lasting things.

My friend, Herschel Scott, charter member of the Eugene Gleemen, heartily recommends the choral concert given by this splendid organization tonight at 8:15 at the Junior High School.

We're here to help you and your family toward a richer, fuller life through music. That's why we have such a complete selection of fine musical instruments available on convenient terms. That's why we have friendly folks to help and advise you. Come in and talk to us about music for you... at OTT & RICKETS MUSIC STORE, 101-105 W. Cass St. Phone 3-3202. (Paid Advertisement)

Adjectival Barrage Gives B.C. Official An Earful

VICTORIA, B. C. — (CP) — This little gem drifted all the way down from Prince George:

A car pulled up to a garage there, and a good-looking middle-aged man got out and ordered a tank full of gas.

"How are the roads south of here?" asked the customer.

"They're the ?(X?)! roads I have ever seen. They're ?(X?)! awful. I'd like to get hold of that (censored) minister of public works and show him the lousy roads we have to drive on," said the garageman.

The easy-going stranger handed his credit card to the attendant. Printed on it was "E. C. Carson, minister of public works."

Winston

By MRS. GEORGE BACHER

Gary Robinson, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Robinson of Winston, suffered a broken collar bone while at play recently. He has been placed in a full cast, but it is hoped that this can be replaced by a smaller one within a few months. It will probably be necessary for the small cast to remain for a year's duration, his parents said. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson recently purchased a home site from C. E. Bowman and have built on the property. Mr. Robinson is employed by Mitchell's mill.

Marked progress was made this week on the canal being constructed by the county — a flood control project to keep county roads in this vicinity open during the rainy season. The ditch was opened near the Archie Wilson property, running along the lowlands of the Fromdahl, Bacher and Masters ranches to join another county road. This portion has been completed and work is underway to run the canal through the property belonging to M. R. Brosi and L. J. Fullerton, thence to highway 99.

The drainage ditch along these points has been considered inadequate for a number of years. Flooded roads have resulted even when no actual flood conditions existed. The new venture is expected to help alleviate this hazard.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Rhoden (Ulah Agnes Winston) and two children have disposed of their home in Roseburg and taken temporary quarters in the Harry Winston home here. They plan to build again in Roseburg soon. Mr. Rhoden is associated with his father in business. They operate Lowell's in Roseburg.

Word has been received here by friends of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Campbell that they have arrived in San Diego where they will make their home. Campbell, who formerly was a member of the Dillard
