Riddle Resident Dies After Illness

Charles Henry Durgin, 61, resident of Riddle the last 39 years, died Monday afternoon after a lingering illness. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Durgin and was born Nov. 13, 1870, in Ohio.
At the age of six, Durgin moved to Kansas with his parents and three sisters. He was married to California Mae Dunlap on July 5, 1899.
In 1912, he came to Oregon and was employed by the Standard Bridge Co. of Omaha, which built the bridges at Riddle and Winston. Durgin will be remembered as an outdoorsman who enjoyed hunting and fishing.
He is survived by two sons, Charles N. Durgin, St. Louis, Mo.; and John H., of Riddle; 11 grandchildren; 14 great-grandchildren, and several nieces and nephews. His wife and daughter preceded him in death.
Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday in the chapel of Ganz mortuary, Myrtle Creek, with the Rev. Carl Pershall of Riddle Baptist church officiating. Vault interment will follow in Riddle cemetery.

Oil Exploration Will Be Expanded In County

Sullivan explained, "to secure leases, if possible, on all lands showing promise of favorable oil structure. If we can secure these leases it will be possible to keep control of the exploration, assuring that it be done in an orderly manner and by legitimate outfits. Furthermore it will be possible to 'farm out' leases to competing firms, thereby protecting the county against any firm capping a productive hole and postponing production."
"If Douglas county land owners will cooperate with us we can minimize speculative operations and assure orderly progress in exploration," Sullivan asserted.
He pointed out that all leases are standard in form; that the land owner is assured a royalty of one-eighth of the production from his land. Oil Developers, Inc., will use the standard lease form, thus protecting the land owner in every particular.
A countywide leasing program is to be started in the near future, Sullivan reports. The association is asking the cooperation of affected land owners in keeping the project under local control and management, he states.

'Voice Of Democracy' Contest Winners Named

Frank West, Roseburg high school senior, was selected as winner of the local "Voice of Democracy" contest in the final judging Monday.
West was chosen as best among a group of senior high school speech makers. Other winners were Bruce Dairns, second prize, and Beulah Willhoit, third.
Speeches were recorded at KRNR and judged by three local judges. The contest was sponsored by the Junior chamber of commerce. First prize is $25 in defense bonds, second prize, $10 cash, contributed by Ott-Ricketts Music store, and third prize, $5 cash.
West's speech will be recorded on a 16-inch disk and sent to the state Junior chamber headquarters, where it will be judged in the state elimination. From the state winners, four national winners will be selected, reports Clyde Moore, chairman.

Vets Bonus Bonds Buy With State's Funds To Be Asked

SALEM — (AP) — The state bond commission will ask the state retirement board and the state industrial accident commission to buy bonds to pay Oregon's veterans' bonus.
That was decided here at a meeting of the bond commission.
Representatives of veterans organizations urged the bond commission to try to sell the veterans' bonds to state agencies. The retirement board and accident commission are the only two agencies with enough trust funds available. Both in the past have indicated they preferred to keep their present investment.
The suggestion was made that these two agencies buy a small portion of the $40,000,000 bond issue and with this money get bonus payments underway.
Private buyers have refused to bid on the bonds since a regional federal credit restraint committee ruled that the bonus would be inflationary.
Members of the state bond commission are Gov. Douglas McKay, State Treasurer Walter J. Pearson and L. O. Arens, a member of the accident commission.
John W. Jones, Portland, spokesman for the veterans advisory board, said "if you will issue the bonds and let the veterans organizations be your salesmen, we'll sell every one of them."
Jones said a lot of them could be sold in the south, "where they still believe in states rights."

Differences In Civil Defense Smoothed Out to bring about a closer relationship between the state and the county," he added.

Hayes reported that state personnel is presently working on a new master plan for the state which will put the county, state and city organizations on a closer footing. Among items included in the plan, he said, are emergency route designations and assembly points to and from the Portland area. He stated these would be sent to the Douglas county organization immediately since this county is now in a position to process them. He also stated the Sheriff's aero squadron and other aircraft in the county would be returned to the jurisdiction of the county.
In conclusion, Hayes verbally applauded the impressive advances the county has made since its inception.
"We are almost self sufficient. We think we can handle anything but general fire or flood," Pierce agreed.

Alvin Chester Watts, 50, Passes Here On Tuesday

Alvin Chester Watts, 50, former resident of Milwaukie, Ore., died here Tuesday after a long illness.

PROBLEM: How can we develop more products from our forests?
Wood is truly a wonder material. Bound within the protective shield of bark are the necessary elements for a multitude of new products. Many parts of the tree, including the bark, which were once of little value can now be made into useful products, thanks to science.
The problem then becomes one of developing manufacturing and marketing methods that will ultimately be successful. When a new product is successfully marketed, it creates new and permanent jobs, makes better use of our forest resources, and provides more stable sources of taxes which is the only support of government.

ANSWER: SCIENTISTS AND ENGINEERS CREATE NEW PRODUCTS, METHODS AND MARKETS
The Weyerhaeuser Timber Company, as well as many others in the forest industry, steadily reinvests income in research and development. For example, the Weyerhaeuser Development Department at Longview, Washington, is manned by a skilled staff of 40 scientists and engineers. Similar work is carried on by a corps of chemists in the Company's pulp mill laboratories. From their work is coming new products, new uses, and new methods which are unlocking the fabulous storehouse of the forest.
