Columbia Loses Fifth Cage Tilt

NEW YORK (AP) — This time a year ago Columbia's basketball team was unbeaten and in the midst of a 22-game winning streak. This season it's different for the lads on Morningside Heights. They lost their fifth game of the season Wednesday night, a 66 to 64 thriller to Pennsylvania.

It was the 2nd straight Ivy League defeat for the defending champions and shattered their home court winning streak of 27 games.

The game was one of the few games of national importance. In other major eastern tilts, Carnegie Tech upset Pitt, 65-56, and Fordham beat Princeton, 72-66.

In the south, once-beaten Florida drubbed Georgia, 74-55, and William and Mary edged Washington and Lee, 84-82.

In the Border Conference, Hardin Simmons nipped Arizona State, 52-51. On the Pacific Coast Whitman edged Gonzaga, 57-56.

Testimony was given at the trial that the crossing was blocked for 40 minutes on Dec. 19.

But it didn't—nary a time. Carver High, of Chester, won the game by a shutout, 44-0.

Chemical-Made Gasoline Soon Coming, Claim

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Chemistry may break the deadlock between the government and the oil industry and produce synthetic gasoline commercially "much sooner than many think."

This is the opinion of the research manager of Koppers company in Pittsburgh, in announcing that its research department is going to set up a pilot plant for the conversion of coal to synthetic liquid fuels.

What they'll aim at is not so much the synthetic gasoline they'll make but the valuable chemicals the process will also turn out.

Government officials are plug-steadily for commercial plants to turn coal or shale into gasoline and fuel oils.

They contend this would be a national safeguard if war should deplete present supplies of petroleum. And they think the synthetic gasoline can be produced from our abundant coal and shale supplies almost as cheaply as from petroleum.

Claim Is Disputed

Oil industry leaders have criticized this contention. They claim the synthetic gasoline would be far more expensive to produce and they say that the tax money and steel would be better used to expand the oil industry facilities. They also say oil reserves are sufficient for even a war emergency.

Dr. G. F. D'Alelio, Koppers research manager, agrees with both sides to some extent. He says, "While plants to make gasoline from coal are costly to build and gasoline could not presently be produced in them at prices in competition with petroleum gasoline, research is finding ways to produce an increasing number of valuable chemicals in such processes.

"These processes can be regulated to produce more chemicals and less gasoline. It is here that upgrading of products may result in a 'coal to gasoline' plant becoming economically feasible much sooner than many think."
