Double Murder, Arson Charged To Ex-Marshall

MOUNT VERNON, Wash. (AP) — Harold G. Chase, former Darrington, Wash., town marshal held at Everett on arson charges, faced first degree murder counts in two counties Friday.
A warrant accusing Chase in the strangulation death of Leonard Lewis, a patient in the Northern State Hospital at Sedro Woolley, was filed in Skagit County Superior Court here Thursday.
A similar charge was filed in Snohomish County last week in connection with the death of Dr. Russell R. Bradley, an Everett optometrist.
The charge filed here by Prosecutor Reuben Youngquest accuses Chase of premeditated murder in the death of Lewis. It occurred Jan. 28, 1949 when both were patients at Northern State Hospital.
Snohomish County authorities said Chase claimed responsibility in both deaths. He was held in Snohomish County on arson charges filed in connection with a fire at Darrington when he was marshal.
