Auto Bearings Devised That Outlast Engines

By David J. Wilkie
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT — It used to be said an automobile engine was only good as its bearings. This view is being upset by engineering progress, according to speakers before the Society of Automotive Engineers here.

New materials have been developed that produce bearings that actually outlast engines and free engineers from one of the limiting factors of engine design.

Arthur B. Shaw, of General Motors' Moraine Products Division, described what is called the Moraine-400 bearing. Basically it is comprised of a steel backing clad with a cadmium-silicon-aluminum alloy overlaid with a tin-copper-lead habit.

Shaw said the new bearing has outlasted three to four crankshafts and blocks in a test engine. He estimated the new bearing has six to 10 times the life of conventional bearings, with four to six times the load-carrying capacity.

Materials shortages and other restrictions have not hampered engineering work in the industry's laboratories.

This has been well demonstrated in the work that has been completed on experimental cars; power braking and power steering.

Power Steering Looms

One speaker on power steering told the engineers five car makers probably will have the steering aid in this year's models compared with one, Chrysler, in 1951.

He didn't designate the five, but aside from Chrysler, it is known power steering will be introduced this year by Cadillac, Buick and Oldsmobile.

Ford has been experimenting with the device, but whether it will be ready for introduction on this year's Lincoln models has not been indicated.

Opposes President But Takes Son's Medal

CASTILE, N. Y. — Frank E. Spring says his soldier son didn't die for any one man.

Spring accepted Sunday a posthumous Purple Heart award and citation made by President Truman to his son, an Army Air Force bombardier who died during World War II in Germany.

Spring said he would not return the medal awarded his son Lt. Merrill T. Spring, even though he did not agree with the President's policies.

"This would not be in keeping with the spirit of the boy . . . he said. "It was America and not for any one man for whom my son died."
