

Moneyless Arab, Seeking Education, Arkansas State College's Problem

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—Officials at Arkansas State College have a puzzler on their hands!

What to do with a 20-year-old Arab whose life savings were spent on a trip to the United States for a free college education.

Schukki Mohammed El Lhatiri appeared at Arkansas State Monday saying he was ready to begin classes.

He had only $10 in his pocket—all that remained from the sale of a farm in Israel to finance his trip to America.

Khatiri gave Dean of Men Robert Moore this account:

After finishing high school in Jerusalem, he started writing letters to colleges in the United States in hopes of completing his education.

Scores of colleges sent him catalogues. And then a form letter from Arkansas State arrived.

Lured by Campus Bid

It stated that "campus life at State is full, free and friendly," and Khatiri took the sentence literally. He decided that Arkansas State was the place for him.

He got $400 for the small farm left him by his late father and used the money for a steamship ticket to New York.

He arrived in this country with $50. Khatiri decided that wasn't enough to get him to Arkansas. He visited a friend in Portland, Me., who gave him $45.

Khatiri arrived at Jonesboro Monday. He had $10 left.

Dean Moore said the slightly built young man is being quartered in the men's dormitory until school officials figure out what to do.

The dean said an effort would be

Japanese Says Citizen Rights Lost By Pressure

PORTLAND, Ore. — Yoshio Marukami testified in federal court Saturday that he gave up his American citizenship because he feared reprisals from other wartime inmates at the Tule Lake Japanese Relocation Center.

Marukami, 31, is suing to regain his American citizenship.

He testified through an interpreter that he was born in Seattle in 1920. Shortly after that his family took him to Japan he said. He returned to the U. S. in 1939 to avoid draft into the Japanese Army he testified.

He was placed, along with other West Coast Japanese, in relocation centers during World War II. At Tule Lake he renounced his American citizenship because of pressure from other inmates, he said.

Marukami said his wife—whom he met at Tule Lake—now is in Japan—where they were deported after the war.
