MIRACULOUS HEALING IS NOT FOR TODAY!

(ARTICLE NUMBER FOUR)

So far in our discussion we have showed that miracles have ceased because the purpose for which they were given has been accomplished, and the means by which they came is no longer available. We wish to continue today by giving a passage from Paul that tells when the gifts of the Spirit were to cease. Today's argument is a quotation that I have borrowed but expresses the truth on the matter.

"In 1 Cor. 13:1 Paul says he does not want us to be ignorant concerning 'spiritual gifts.' Then in verses 8 to 10 he mentions nine gifts including prophecy, tongues, and supernatural knowledge. In the next chapter he says, 'But charity never faileth; but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away.' (1 Cor. 13:8). So miracles were to 'fail,' 'cease' and 'vanish away.' It was never God's purpose to have them continue on and on in the church.

"After Paul said prophecies, tongues, and inspired knowledge would fail, cease, and vanish away, he said, 'For we know in part, and we prophesy in part.' (1 Cor. 13:9). Each inspired man knew only a part of all truth, for it was not all revealed through any one man, but some given through one, and the rest through others, until finally the perfect and complete revelation would come from God. Hence, he goes on to say, 'but when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away.' (1 Cor. 13:10). The words 'when' and 'then' are adverbs of time, and point out a certain definite time for miracles to be done away. He says it is when the perfect revelation is come in contrast to the parts or fragments that they then had. He had just said they then knew and prophesied 'in part.' When all the parts were finally revealed they had that which is perfect—the whole or complete truth. Jesus promised that the Spirit would 'guide' the apostles 'into all truth,' (John 16:13), and 'teach them all things' (John 14:26). This was done by the time they wrote the last word of the New Testament. That which 'is perfect' had come. And God Almighty says 'then' tongues, and signs 'ceased' and were 'done away.' (1 Cor. 13:8-13).

"After teaching us that miracles would fail, cease, vanish away, and be done away, 'when' the 'perfect' revelation should come, the apostle went on to say they saw through a glass darkly at that time, with the light of an incomplete revelation, but affirmed that when the perfect revelation should come, 'then' they could see 'face to face.' At the time he wrote, he said they knew 'in part' but said, 'Then shall I know even as I am known.' (1 Cor. 13:12). With a perfect revelation one can know himself as he is. In the next verse he says, 'own abideth faith, hope, charity these three.' (1 Cor. 13:13). The miraculous gifts were to fail, cease, vanish away, and be done away, but faith, hope, and charity were to abide—not 'these twelve' but just 'these three.' Those ceasing are here contrasted with those that were to 'abide.' But many people teach that ALL abide today.

If you object by saying "that which is perfect" is Christ, and since He has not come, the miracles are still here, you assume your position. Paul did not say this in He. We admit that Christ's revelation is perfect, can bring men into all truth, and that is what Paul was contrasting—the partial revelations, "in part" with the later revelation in its perfection. We see, therefore, that the Bible teaches the spiritual gifts have ceased and with them all miraculous works. Anything done today is by natural law.
