

Choral Evening Slated Tonight

The second informal choral evening will be presented by the choral department of the Senior High School tonight at 8 p.m. in the chorus room of the Library Arts Building.

According to R. Cloyd Riffe, supervisor of vocal music in the Roseburg school system, the programs are designed to be an informal get-together of choral students, their parents and friends.

Featured on the program tonight will be the Girls Glee Club and the sophomore boys' quartet, under the direction of Wendell Johnson, choral director at the high school; Carolyn Burr, pianist, and the advanced mixed chorus under Riffe's leadership.

The latter group has been heard on numerous occasions by the local clubs and service groups. As on the first choral evening, the climax of the program will feature a period of community singing under the leadership of Riffe and Johnson.

Anyone interested in choral music and singing is invited. There will be no admission charge.

Roseburg Lions Capture Symbol

Leo, the Lion, for the first time since he became the coveted prize in Lions' district 36-E, was captured and brought to Roseburg by the Roseburg Lions Den Wednesday night.

A delegation from the local club made a surprise visitation to the Canyonville club, which meets at Ford's Restaurant.

The trophy was started at Coos Bay and finally found its way to Bly, in south central Oregon, where it remained for a long period. It was too far for most clubs to travel with 50 percent of their membership, the required number to capture the trophy.

But recently the Riddle Lions got up courage and made the trip. About a month ago, Canyonville captured Leo from Riddle. The traveling trophy's purpose is to promote interclub relations.

nation get "common honesty" in government.

"The honest and efficient administration of the affairs of state under Governor McKay is a good indication of what we may hope for in Washington under a Republican administration," he said. He added some remarks about Oregon's two senators: "I have served a long time in the Senate now with your two able Republican senators. Guy Cordon has been a personal friend and he and I have agreed on the basic principles which have dictated the Republican course in Congress. "I had more disagreement with Wayne Morse, but he always vigorously presents a point of view which forces those who differ with him to reconsider the correctness of their own views, and tends to a sounder judgment by the majority in the Senate."

Dairy Ad Earns Notice Of Assn.

A Dairy Queen ad that originated in the News-Review may form the basis for a nationwide advertising campaign.

Jack Holder, local Dairy Queen merchant, reported that the ad, depicting a man eating pie topped with Dairy Queen, while his proud wife looks on, received favorable comment at the National Dairy Queen association convention, held in Chicago.

According to Holder, the National Dairy Queen Association will plan its advertising campaign on the basis of the advertisement that appeared originally in the News-Review.

Holder, just returned here from the Chicago convention, also participated in an Oregon-Washington Dairy Queen convention at Portland, where he was principal speaker. His topic was "Dairy Queen merchandising."

Holder also reported that he was a passenger on the crack California Zephyr which was badly wrecked some 100 miles in the Colorado Rockies, while returning from Chicago. No one was hurt, Holder added.

Birthday Of Oregon No Longer Celebrated

SALEM — Oregon is 93 years old this Valentine's Day. The state was admitted to the union on Feb. 14, 1859, but it took a month for the news to get from Washington, D. C. to Salem. The state's birthday used to be celebrated, but it isn't any more.

Verdict Hits Doctor After Speedy Drive

emergency vehicle — but that even if it were he had no right to endanger lives by driving the way he did," Murray testified.

Dr. Ferguson later testified he felt there was no time during the trip when he was in danger of an accident.

"I feel that I had enough clearance to make a pass at all times judging from the speed of the cars I was passing," he said.

Dr. Ferguson asked the district attorney a few questions himself, when cross examined as to why he didn't use one of the two available ambulances in the area.

"In this case I didn't feel I should trust the care of the baby to an ambulance driver who had no medical experience," Dr. Ferguson explained.

"Couldn't you have ridden along with the ambulance and administered to the baby?" Davis asked. "I could possibly have done that — but have you ever ridden in an ambulance?" the doctor asked.

"Yes, I certainly have," the district attorney answered.

"Not as comfortable as an auto, is it?" questioned Dr. Ferguson. "Well, if I had a broken neck — I don't know," Davis replied.

Also testifying at the trial were Mrs. Ferguson, who supported her husband's testimony, and Deputy Sheriff W. I. Worrall, a defense witness who said he authorized use of the siren and blinker light on Ferguson's car.

4. Urged citizens to read a public statement issued by a Harlem Negro, father of a Korean veteran recently awarded posthumously the Medal of Honor.

The father said this was ample answer to Paul Robeson, Negro singer, who had said American Negroes would never fight against Soviet Russia.

The President called the Harlem Negro's statement the most patriotic and outstanding one he had seen since he has been in politics. Asked about stories mentioning possible United States warnings of retaliatory action if a Korea truce is violated, the President replied this is a poor time to comment on that as it would only muddy the waters of the present truce negotiations.

He would not comment on another Taft statement, calling the Korean conflict a "Truman War" except to say the public will have to come to its own conclusion about that. He added the Ohioan is running for the nomination and he's not even a presidential candidate yet.

X-Ray Retakes Of Chests Begun

Chest X-ray retakes were begun Wednesday for persons whose regular X-rays show signs of disease or are questionable.

Dr. E. J. Wainwright, county health officer, said the retakes, which are on large negatives, are being handled by appointment at the rate of about 60 per day.

Miss Ruth Peffley, nursing consultant, was in Roseburg, Wednesday morning to assist in getting the program started and will be here again from time to time.

The retake program is expected to continue until the first of March. The regular county-wide miniature X-ray program ends Saturday.

Present indications are that about 1,000 persons will be contacted to appear at the health department at the Court House for the retakes at a mobile unit behind the building.

Based on averages, about 25 cases of tuberculosis can be expected from the group of 1,000, Dr. Wainwright said.

Also being checked are persons whose miniature negatives indicate heart conditions or tumors as well as those whose negatives are questionable because of technical difficulties.

Persons called back for retakes are being interviewed by a public health nurse on personal medical history in order to help doctors in interpretations of the negatives. If an active case of tuberculosis is found the person's family will be asked to have an X-ray or skin test if they have not done so already, Dr. Wainwright said.

This is done to trace any other possible cases that may be undiscovered.

Commandments Figure In Church Episode

LOS ANGELES — "Thou shalt not steal," says the eighth Commandment, and the Rev. Edward F. Rice was only trying to enforce it when he hauled out his 12-gauge shotgun.

Rice, pastor of the Ascension Lutheran Church, grabbed the gun when he heard a noise in the church early Wednesday. He told his wife to call police and went outside to wait.

When a man came out, Rice kept him covered until officers arrived. Later he booked Charles H. Rolf on suspicion of burglary. Wasn't Rice taking a chance on breaking the sixth Commandment, "Thou shalt not kill?" "No, sir! The gun wasn't loaded."

Students Of Cal Poly Top Blood Giving List

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. — Students of California State Polytechnic College Thursday claimed a collegiate record—percentage-wise—in donating blood to the Armed Services.

In a three-day drive, Cal Poly students gave 879 pints. This was 43.1 per cent of the 2,036 member student body.

Idaho previously had claimed a record with 1,081 pints from a student body of 3,040. This was 38.8 per cent.

A Cal Poly student spokesman said 200 prospective donors were turned down because they had colds.

Threat Of Films Halt Pilfering

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — George Williams, station-master at this suburban railroad depot, was only $1—instant of the usual $2.50—short in his newspaper collections Thursday morning.

George operates the newspaper concession at the station on the honor system, with a money box where commuters can make their own change for the purchase.

For months his weekly shortage has run almost on the nose of $12.50, all lost to riders of one train. Last week George bored a small hole in the ceiling over the change box, spotted the pilferers—several well-dressed men and one woman—and the next day was ready with a motion picture camera.

He informed his customers Wednesday with an announcement written on a blackboard, that he was prepared to stage an "early show" of his films.

"Obviously, when someone took a buck this morning, one of these birds can't read," he said.
