J. P. O'Hara, Prominent Catholic Scholar, Dies

PORTLAND (U.P.) — John P. O'Hara, 74, one-time editor here of the Catholic Sentinel, former professor of history at the University of Oregon and for more than 30 years head of the Catholic Book and Church Supply Company of Portland, died Tuesday in his car in Montana.

Associates here said he had spent some weeks traveling and visiting relatives. In addition to his wife, survivors include a brother, Bishop Edwin V. O'Hara of Kansas City.

Men Fattest, Laziest In U.S. History, Claim

NEW YORK (U.P.) — Sir, are you growing fatter and lazier? The New York Custom Tailors Designers Club says American men are the fattest and laziest in U.S. history. The reasons: Too much sleep and food, not enough exercise.

But, the club said Tuesday, men are now better dressed than ever before even though the mood size has jumped from 32 to 40.

KRNR Log

MGM THEATER tonight at 8:00 presents "A Letter To Evie," co-starring Marsha Hunt and Hume Cronyn in a leap-year type story of a girl who writes to and receives letters from a mysterious admirer. She thinks she knows him by his work shirt — but finds her ideal shattered, and a new romance when she discovers the shirt belongs to another.

SMILEY BURNETTE, heard each Tuesday and Thursday night at 10:15 picture herein, western star and an enthusiastic hobbyist, believes that the old saw about "safety in numbers" applies to hobbies as well as other activities. Smiley, whose hobbies include building wood and metal gadgets in his work-shop, swimming and fishing, thinks a single hobby can be overdone and even lead to strained family relations for either husband or wife. His own tastes are so versatile that the day he came home with his underwater diving outfit, his wife groaned, "I'm glad they don't sell used submarines in those war surplus stores." Smiley used the diving outfit in the ocean just once, incidentally. Then he gazed upon so many strange creatures that looked back at him that he decided to confine his diving to his home swimming pool. Smiley writes most of the songs he sings both in pictures and on wax. However, on his program he doesn't limit his repertoire to these — he sings others if they are especially suited to his talents. He features his own band, and occasionally features a guest star.

ALVINO REY

ALVINO REY, above, his "talking guitar" and his orchestra, featured Lynn Hart and Jimmy Joyce, vocalists, are booked for an evening of dancing at John's Creek, north of Myrtle Creek, Saturday, March 15. Rey is currently on tour with a small musical group after nine years as a leading maestro of dance orchestras.

Ghostly Driver Plagues Traffic On Ohio Highway

VANDALIA, O. (U.P.)—The Phantom of Route 40 is roaring down the National Highway these nights—maybe along a stretch you've traveled on.

Listen to Roy Fitzwater, 30, a Greenville, O., trucker:

"It was spitting snow, and freezing rain, and very dark one night three weeks ago. I dimmed my lights when a car approached. 'When the car got about 200 feet from me, its lights went out entirely. Then a little light flicked on inside, and I saw this thing. It was horrible looking. It scared me. I jammed down on my throttle and got out of there fast.'"

Five tales of the ghostly traveler have reached the State Highway Patrol here. Some truckers said the "Phantom's" car glows. Occasionally, the "Phantom" gets out and reveals a Halloween mask, and a skeleton suit, with bones outlined in luminous paint.

Three truckers almost caught the macabre motorist a week ago. But he zoomed away, scraping his car against one of the trucks.

Maybe he's mentally ill, said a patrol officer—or maybe he's just got a weird sense of humor.

But keep a keen eye, if you're going Route 40 in dead of night—in Western Ohio.

SCHOOL HEADS QUIT

OAKRIDGE (U.P.) — The school district here has lost its superintendent and the head of its board, apparently as the culmination of a dispute over policies.

John W. King, superintendent of the Oakridge School District for eight years, handed his resignation to the board Tuesday night. Board Chairman Claude Jones resigned with him, telling the rest of the board, "I cannot go along with you any further."
