Isabelle Horner, Ex-Teacher Here, Taken By Death

CORVALLIS — Mrs. Isabelle Horner, 82, wife of the late Dr. John B. Horner, head of the Oregon State college history department for 42 years before his death in 1933, died here Friday night. She had been in ill health for several years.

Mrs. Horner took an active part in community, civic, educational and social affairs during most of the 85 years she spent in Benton county. She was born near Centerville, Ia. She came west with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Skipton. She was married to Dr. Horner September 5, 1889.

Mrs. Horner was educated in Benton county schools, Philomath college and Willamette university. She taught school for a number of years in Brownsville, Salem, Roseburg and Corvallis. In the earlier days of OSC, she served as matron of old Caithorn and Alpha halls and Waldo hall.

Mrs. Horner was a member of the Presbyterian church, the Corvallis Women's club, St. Mary's chapter No. 9, Eastern Star, and the American Association of University Women.

Surviving are two daughters, Miss Vera Horner, Corvallis, and Mrs. Richmond Wells of Portland, and a brother, Otis Skipton of Portland.

Damage Suit Dismissed On Defense Demurrer
A personal injury suit filed by L. E. Shelton against E. L. Paris was dismissed Monday by Circuit Judge Carl E. Wimberly.

Judge Wimberly sustained a defense demurrer on the ground the action was not started within the time specified by law.

Shelton had asked general damages of $50,000 and $7,280, alleging he received a foot injury requiring amputation of a leg while working for the plaintiff June 28, 1948.

General Credit Service, Inc., has filed suit in Circuit Court against L. R. and Ony Wilson for $364.79 allegedly owed on a promissory note, plus an additional $44.12 allegedly owed another creditor.

Third World War Not Near, Stalin Asserts

such meeting places to areas under Soviet control. Truman has said he was willing to see Stalin in Washington.

If anything, Tuesday's response that "possibly" such a meeting would be useful is an indication that Moscow is less interested in such a meeting than it was a few years ago.

Inconsistency Shown
As for the unification of Germany question, the Soviet Union has refused to admit to East Germany a United Nations commission delegated to find out if an honest all-Germany election can be assured.

The western powers have insisted that such a determination must be made before the integration of West Germany and East Germany can be considered.

West Germany is occupied by the United States, Britain and France. The Soviet Union occupies East Germany.

With little hope of unification, the West is going ahead with plans to rearm Western Germany under the leadership of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The fourth point of the Stalin statement — on the co-existence of capitalism and Communism — is a typical Soviet view. It says, in effect, that capitalism and Communism can exist in the world side by side and peacefully — on conditions satisfactory to Moscow.

Wick is one of a group of editors who returned by plane Tuesday from a month's fact-finding trip that took them to Belgrade and many other European points.
