forces. Their training is efficient, directed by some of the most experienced soldiers, sailors and airmen alive today. In each case, in each unit, there is a growing confidence that they can do their job."

Their job was a tough one. The report said the soldiers on the Allied side faced 225 Russian and satellite divisions and 20,000 Russian planes, good in quality and steadily improving.

On the Allied side are fewer than 50 divisions and 4,000 planes to be ready by the end of this year.

"The Soviet Army casts its shadow over the length and breadth of Europe," he said. "The satellite countries have increased the size and combat effectiveness of their armed forces. Reports from behind the Iron Curtain indicate that the restiveness of these captive peoples has led to even tighter, tougher, more brutal measures of state control."

"The familiar technique of the purge, deliberate terror, and intimidation has forced a measure of unity—however unhappy—in this area.

Tide Turns Toward Allies
The Soviet Air Force in Eastern Germany is currently replacing obsolescent aircraft with jet planes. Work on airfields, communications, and supply installations is being vigorously pursued in Eastern Europe."

"Nevertheless, the tide has begun to flow our way and the situation of the free world is brighter than it was a year ago.

At Lisbon, our member nations made great headway on issues vital to our continued progress. They strengthened our eastern flank by bringing into NATO the stout-hearted peoples of Greece and Turkey. They agreed to the concept of a European Defense Community and a close relationship with the German federal republic."

Senator Taft Wins In Wisconsin Primary

principles of the Democratic party and to continue the progress of the last 20 years."

Stassen asserted: "Senator Taft received a setback because he failed to obtain more than one-half of the total popular vote."

Some political analysts called the Wisconsin primary a race Taft "had to win" to stay in the running for the presidential nomination. He was defeated in New Hampshire by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Eisenhower then racked up a towering write-in vote in Minnesota a week later. Taft then tried unsuccessfully to get off the ballot in the April 15 New Jersey Primary.

Taft called Wisconsin a "key state," but said Tuesday he would stay in the battle for the nomination, regardless of what happened here.

Like Unknown unity
Eisenhower, not a candidate in Wisconsin, nevertheless was the great unknown quantity in the election.

An open bid for votes from his admirers—who could not write in his name on the ballot—came from Stassen. The former governor of Minnesota offered to divide any delegates won in Wisconsin with Eisenhower. Stassen won none.

Warren, a three-days-a-week campaigner, consistently told the voters he was not running as a stand-in for Eisenhower. His slate of delegates, however, asserted they would still be able to support the general at the GOP nominating convention, if or when Warren conceded he was out.

There was no way of telling which of the two, Warren or Stassen, benefited most from the "Eisenhower vote" in Wisconsin, nor how large it may have been.
