Viaduct Runoff Flood Deals $100,000 Damage

TRAIL, B. C. — Flooded basements, mud-caked streets and a $100,000 damage bill were left Monday to mark the travels of runoff water which took a destructive detour.

A debris-damaged viaduct caused the flooding Sunday night at this city 250 miles inland from Vancouver.

The four-foot-deep viaduct was built several years ago to carry runoff water down to the Columbia River.

But, when it became plugged, the water backed up, into about 75 basements, washed the overflowing water poured out roads and caked streets with as much as four feet of mud.

Damage was centered in the East Trail district.

The plugged viaduct caused other drains to spout like geysers, resulting in additional damage to streets and homes.
