Probation Given To Investigator

Walter Lincoln Tooze Jr., 39, San Francisco, was given probation on a six-month jail sentence by Judge Carl E. Wimberly.

Tooze, a special investigator, pleaded guilty to "taking and using an automobile without consent of the owner."

He had been arrested north of Roseburg by state police in possession of a car belonging to James Levi Lambert Jr.

Also arraigned before Judge Wimberly Friday was Norman Ray Hockstrasser, 19, who pleaded guilty to assault with a dangerous weapon. Sentence was postponed.

Hockstrasser admitted hitting a Portland salesman, Jack P. Armstrong, over the head with a five-inch rock and taking his station wagon. The youth, a hitch-hiker, had been picked up by Armstrong near Crescent City. Hockstrasser was arrested by police at Harrisburg.

Judge Wimberly postponed indefinitely sentencing of Donald G. Somers, 25, Glde, who pleaded guilty to passing a worthless check to Johnny's Tavern at Glde. Somers is to return to the Navy from which he was AWOL, Judge Wimberly ordered.

Audience Praises Play Presented In Roseburg

The Players was admirable in his role of a satirically-minded salesman, a little stiff in the first act, he became more casual as the play progressed.

Other performers include Wes Baller, Jack Shiley, Mollie Lu Moats, Ruth Bailor, Lucille Frisk, Betty Lee Prickett and Mary Lou Newhouse. The contrast of personalities represented sharpened the interest.

The play, concerning the attempt of a naive salesman to stay honest and the actors seemed to hesitate too long. More practice would have corrected this fault.

The stage setting was in particular good taste. Color and special relationships were in harmony. The dominance of pastel shades and the clever background view from a French door was aesthetically pleasing. Carl Prickett and Marvin Lane are in charge of properties. The costumes, arranged by Mary Lou Newhouse, seemed in good taste. Elizabeth Hughes, Marilyn West and Pat Schlueter are to be commended for effective make up. Others on the production staff include Ralph Slocum, production manager, Ralph Menard, Wes Bailor, Jack Shiley, Beverly Menard, Phillip Plumb, Pauline Potter and Ruth Bailor. Nina Davis was an effective mistress of ceremony and Ethel Minturn a commendable accompanist for inter-act solists.

Centennial candidate Beth Thomas was introduced, and sang two solos. The Postal Notes Quartet sang several selections. Mrs. Ruth Harris sang "The World Is Waiting For The Sunrise" with Ethel Minturn. The inter-act performance was particularly enjoyable.

The Players meet every Tuesday evening at the Armory. All interested in dramatics are invited.

Highway Opened To Diamond Lake

Good news for fishermen who hope to go to Diamond Lake for the opening of lake fishing was announced by Robert Aufderheide, who said the highway from Union Creek will be cleared by tonight.

Aufderheide said he received word Friday from the ranger at Diamond Lake that plowing is underway, and that the highway should be sufficiently cleared for travel starting this Sunday.

The Union Creek route is reached from Medford through Forest or by way of Klamath Falls on the Crater Lake Highway to the south.

Entrance to Diamond Lake is also possible via the North Umpqua and Toketee Falls or Big Camas Routes. It is not known if the northern route west from The Dalles-California Highway will be open. Briggs Logging Co. is hauling logs out of the Diamond Lake area, but over its own private road.

Ice went off the lake Tuesday. Snow remains only in drifts and shaded spots, according to Aufderheide.

Voters Approve School Proposal

Voters in the Rural School District have approved a 1952-53 budget proposal providing for a levy exceeding the six per cent limitation, according to complete returns announced by the county school office.

The levy was approved 436 to 370 for elementary schools, and 477 to 396 for high school purposes. The amount to be levied outside the six per cent limitation for high schools is $266,392.73 and for elementary schools it's $298,991.09.

County School Supt. Kenneth F. Barneburg said next year's mileage rate, based on this year's valuation would be 18.9 mills. However, with an expected increase in valuation the levy is expected to be somewhat less.

Graduation Held At Camas Valley Wednesday Night

by JEAN YODER

District Attorney Robert G. Davis of Roseburg spoke to the Camas Valley graduating seniors at Commencement exercises held Wednesday, May 21, at Camas Valley. His talk, entitled "The Challenge of Youth," stressed the importance of working at democracy, by exercising the voting privilege.

He made it clear to the students and more than 200 friends and parents attending that work is the key to all achievement, and that the atomic age can be one of great advancement if the young people now approaching adulthood will take advantage of their opportunities and exercise their duties implied by those opportunities.

Seniors present in caps and gowns were Judy Counts, valedictorian; Wilam Thrush, salutatorian; William Dunham, Wilson Roberts, and Lorna Schroeder. Dale Wheelock, now in the armed forces, also received his diploma, which was given to his mother, Mrs. E. Boyer, of Tenmile.

Eighth graders awarded certificates of graduation were Russell Ashbaugh, Richard Delaney, Kenneth Delaney, Kenneth Grant, Ronald Munch, James Nichols, Allen Farret, Kenneth Redifer, Wayne Stinnett, Charles Smith, Richard Davidson and Kay Wheeler.

Journalism awards from the University of Oregon, were given to Judy Counts and Bill Dunham for their work on the "Camagon," and the "Digger" respectively. Miss Counts also received the annual Moore Award for the graduating senior who has been the most cooperative during the year, and who has given the most assistance in her class. Jim Combs, Camas Valley School Board member, presented this award in the absence of Guy Moore.

The Grange Award to the eighth grader who has achieved the most during the year was presented to Kay Wheeler by Lee Wilson, master of the Camas Valley Grange.

The girls' chorus sang two songs, "Forever and Ever," and "Far Away Places." It was accompanied by Mrs. E. Boyer, who also played for the professional, recessional and prelude music.

The invocation and benediction were given by Rev. L. G. Weaver, pastor of the Camas Valley Methodist Church. Stanley Robnett, eighth grade teacher, presented the eighth grade to the audience, and Superintendent Marlen Yoder presented the seniors, while Oran Standly, chairman of the Camas Valley School Board, presented the certificates and diplomas to the students. Davis was introduced by Superintendent Yoder.

The stage and gymnasium were decorated by the Junior class with green boughs and spring flowers, and blue and white crepe paper. The motto for the Class of 1952 was "So far, So good." They chose blue and white as their class colors and the blue morning-glory, as their class flower.

Concern Shown Here At Spread Of Fir Beetle

Timber operators in Douglas County are taking the beetle infestation problem seriously in the opinion of James Watts, Roseburg district U. S. forester.

Commenting on Thursday's significant conference of the Subcommittee on Douglas Fir Beetle of the Northwest Pest Action Committee held at the Court House — Watts said today that one operator had an opportunity to talk to was "quite concerned" about developments brought out in the meeting.

The Thursday meeting brought out the prediction of increasing infestation in the coming two years and emphasized the complex nature of solving the problem. Chairman of the group was W. D. Hagenstein, chief of the Industrial Forestry Association.

Watts said that it was hoped that a new aerial survey of Oregon and Washington would be completed by fall. The new survey is expected to locate new areas of infestation. Art Greeley, who attended the Thursday meet, is with the U. S. forest survey program. Lumbermen are being asked to cooperate by reporting all findings of infestation so that the task of aerial search might be minimized.

The beetle became a serious menace after storms and fires of the past two years.

Local Church To Hear Rotiring EUB Leader

Dr. C. P. Gates, conference superintendent for the Oregon-Washington Conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, will be guest speaker at North Roseburg Church, Sunday, May 25 at 8 p.m. DST, Rev. E. Clark Robb, pastor announces. He will also conduct the local church conference for North Roseburg Church, a quarterly business session over which the superintendent presides. Time will be 6:45 p.m. DST.

This will be the last Roseburg appearance of Dr. Gates before his retirement from the superintendency at the denominational Annual Conference, which will convene at Jennings Lodge the last week in July. His ministerial career dates back to early days of the Evangelical denomination in the Pacific Northwest.

Although having reached the age for automatic retirement in his denomination, Dr. Gates, well-known as a special speaker at religious gatherings, is not returning to the seclusion of private life. His present plans call for giving his time to speaking and lecturing at Bible Conferences, camp meetings and in special study series on prophecy.

Officers and members are being urged to attend the local conference at 6:45 and the general public has been invited to the 8 p.m. church service.

YOUR BODY

ROSEBURG, OREGON — These health articles are written and paid for by Dr. B. A. SMITH, Chiropractic Physician, 1500 Garden Valley Road, in the interest of public health and to help you understand the body function. Look for these informative articles every Saturday.

The pituitary gland which lies at the base of the brain, is about the size of an acorn. It contains three lobes: anterior, intermediary and posterior. The anterior pituitary controls the activities of all the endocrine glands. It is indeed the "master gland."

The anterior and posterior lobes of the pituitary have different structures. The posterior lobe secretes two hormones, and the anterior lobe secretes eight or more active principles. Excess secretion of the growth hormone before full development of the ends of the bones results in gigantism abnormally large size and height).

The removal of the anterior pituitary in young animals has a great influence on their growth; the formation of bone tissues is brought to a stop, no more teeth come through, and the sexual and mental development ceases. Dwarfism is produced. On the other hand, increased activity of the anterior lobe results, as previously stated, in gigantism. Some times the gigantism is local, affecting only the head, hands, and feet. This condition is known as acromegaly.

Anterior lobe deficiency leads to underdevelopment of the reproductive system. It also has a profound influence on the carbohydrate metabolism of the body. The anterior pituitary is regarded as being responsible for a great many functions: It is puzzling to understand how so many secretions can be formed within a gland that is as large as a pea.

Two different hormones have been derived from the posterior
