15 Million Slain In China's Purge, Adm. Cooke Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Adm. Charles M. Cooke, Jr., quotes Nationalist Chinese sources as saying ruthless Red purges on the China mainland have taken 15 million lives.

The admiral, who recently returned from two years as technical adviser to the Nationalists on Formosa, said the Communists have executed one million of Chiang Kai-Shek's guerrillas during the past 14 months.

Cooke, former U. S. Seventh fleet commander in the Far East, said the bloody purges had reduced the number of active guerrillas to about half a million.

Cooke said the figures on executions may be exaggerated but he believed the deaths number into the millions. He added:

"The Communists execute anybody who might be thought would support guerrillas."

In an interview in the weekly news magazine "U. S. News & World Report," the admiral said the United States should help Chiang recapture the mainland.

"The Chinese people have now found that Communism is a hundred times more living under Chiang," Cooke said, "and if there is a display of Nationalist strength on the mainland supported by the United States with the objective to end Communist aggression, they will flock to his banner."

Cooke said he did not believe American should furnish armies to Chiang but should arm Nationalist guerrillas and armies defecting from the Communists.

He placed Nationalist military strength on Formosa at roughly half a million men which he called a formidable force with fine spirit.
