Opinions Of Ike Could Satisfy Dixiecrats

country should give up "social gains" it has made, but added he believes that "when we pile law upon law and complication in an effort to solve this thing (labor relations) we are not doing too well."

Decriing "centralized government," Eisenhower called for a searching overhaul of federal operations. "You can't go along and produce efficiency in something that didn't need to be done at all," he declared.

Eisenhower endorsed in principle a 1950 statement of Republican policies which called, among other things, for reduction of taxes and federal spending and a return to a balanced budget.

He was careful, however, to make it clear he wasn't tying himself to all of the details of the program, which called specifically for continuation of the Taft-Hartley act and federal aid to states for subsistence, shelter and medical care for those in need.

Eisenhower tried hard to avoid personalities but he offered an olive branch to friends of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who has been supporting Taft openly.

Eisenhower said if he was elected he would consult MacArthur on Far Eastern policies.

National Guard Company Going To Camp June 14

Some 50 local National Guardsmen will entrain June 14 for a two-week summer encampment at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

First Sergeant Lee Emery said the bulk of the Roseburg unit—Company D of the 186th Infantry—will leave at 5:30 a.m. June 14.

The local men, a part of the famed 41st Division, will take part in training and tactical maneuvers at Ft. Lewis.

Next Monday two men will leave for pre-mess school where they will receive instruction in preparing Army chow. Four other men will leave Thursday, June 12, with truck loads of equipment.

Capt. Fred Boyer is head of the local company. The men will fall in for a preliminary formation the afternoon of June 13 and will load their personal gear aboard the train.

Arriving at Ft. Lewis about 6:30 p.m. the 14th, they will set up camp and spend most of the first week in practice firing of individual and crew served weapons—including machine guns, mortars and a 75 mm. rifle.

Saturday, June 21, is division review day, open to the public. The local company will take part in the dress parade before a reviewing stand of high army and civilian officials.

Weekend passes will be given most of the men after the review and they will be given an opportunity to join in scenic trips in the vicinity sponsored by Army chaplains.

A portion of the second week will be devoted to division tactical problems in attack and defense, and mock war maneuvers.

The local group is expected to return sometime Saturday, June 28.

Convention Will Draw Roseburg Kiwanis Group

Delegates of the Roseburg Kiwanis Club to the 37th annual convention of Kiwanis International at Seattle, Wash., in June will meet with over 10,000 fellow Kiwanians from every section of the United States, Canada, Alaska, and Hawaii, according to Club President N. D. Johnson.

Outlining the program for the five-day convention, June 15-19, he said an exceptional panel of speakers and an elaborate program of entertainment await Seattle-bound Kiwanians.

The spectacular outdoors of the Pacific Northwest will serve as a backdrop to many of the recreational features planned for the conventioners, Johnson said. Cruises on Puget Sound, garden, park and zoo tours and general sight-seeing will enable guests to visit all sections of this historic city, now celebrating its centennial.

When Kiwanian husbands are in convention sessions, ladies and junior guests will be entertained by a variety of amusements, including a professional fashion and stage show produced by Seattle-stylists; receptions, teas, and luncheons are still other attractions.

The social highlight of the convention is the annual President's Reception and Ball, honoring the 1951-52 president of Kiwanis International, Claude B. Hellmann of Baltimore.

Hundreds of Kiwanians will comprise the delegation from the northwest district of this international community service organization. The Kiwanis Club of Roseburg will announce its official convention delegates in the near future, President Johnson said.

Vacation Bible Schools Open Monday; Others Later

To give children an opportunity for concentrated religious study during the summer period, 11 Roseburg churches are announcing plans for 1952 daily vacation Bible schools.

Schools will get underway Monday, June 9, in five local churches. One will begin June 16 and another on August 11. Plans of three other churches remain uncertain.

Already underway are schools at the Church of The Open Bible and Faith Lutheran Church.

Stressing the importance of vacation Bible schools, Rev. Clark Robb, president of the Roseburg Ministerial Association, estimates that two weeks of vacation school accomplishes almost as much in a child's formal religious training as an entire year of Sunday School attendance.

"The average Sunday school would afford a maximum of 36 and one-half hours of instruction (45 minutes for 52 weeks) in one year. The vacation school provides 30 hours in a concentrated program which intensifies the interest and enthusiasm of the child."

The vacation church school had its beginning in 1901, just 51 years ago, in New York City, according to Rev. Raymond W. Schaefer, director of the First Baptist vacation school, which starts Monday. "Children have more leisure time for Bible study, worship and experiences of play, that help in character growth, during summer months."

Recounting the development of the international movement, Mrs. Schaefer says, "Since 1901 it has spread into many countries of the world. Many denominations make use of the vacation church school to further the Christian training of their youth to their church."

"The churches of Roseburg hope that parents will see the advantages of the schools our city is offering, and that many children will enjoy vacation church school this year," she states.

Most schools will be held five days a week for two weeks, until June 20, usually in the morning only. They are primarily designed for youngsters from about 3 to 4 years to junior high school age.

Schools starting Monday, June 9, are: Church of Christ, 789 Military Street, 9:30 a.m. to (undecided); Rev. J. C. Clifford, director.

First Conservative Baptist, north end of Second St., 9:00 a.m. to 11:45; Mrs. Robert Langhoff, director.

First Methodist, Main and Lane Sts., 9:00 a.m. to 11:30; Rev. W. A. MacArthur, director; age, children to 11.

North Roseburg Church, 2043

Vine St., 9:00 a.m. to 12 noon; Rev. Clark Robb, director; the teaching staff includes Mrs. D. E. Stout, Mrs. Lloyd Stumbo, Mrs. Martin Ludwig, Dona Opel, Mrs. Ellis Campbell, Chuck Crose, Mrs. Carley Rainwater, Carole Kimball, Carley Wheelchel, Mrs. Clark Robb and other helpers; promotional exercises Friday evening, June 20; age, 3 to sixth grade.

First Baptist, Rose and Lane Sts., 9:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.; Mrs. Raymond L. Schaefer, director; theme, "The Bible."

Scheduled for Monday, August 11, is the Church of the Nazarene's school. Details are yet to be worked out.

Although both the First Christian Church and St. George's Episcopal Church are planning vacation schools, date and time are undecided. First Church of God may have a school later.

Creswell Killer Given 12 Years In Prison

EUGENE — Johnnie Frazier, 35, Creswell, accused of the fatal beating last December of Edgar F. Lee, Thursday was sentenced to 12 years in the state prison.

Frazier pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter. Earlier he had pleaded innocent to the charge of second-degree murder.

Lee disappeared seven months ago after a quarrel with Frazier over whether Frazier's wife had deliberately put cold coffee in Lee's thermos while preparing his lunch.

Still to face trial in the slaying is Celbie Bowers, 19, who is accused of helping Frazier. Bowers has entered a plea of innocent to second-degree murder.

Lee's body was found in a clump of brush near Creswell last month.
