Tues., June 10, 1952—The News-Review, Roseburg, Ore.

its convention broadcasts from a special booth and master control room overlooking the speakers platform and a convention floor in the amphitheatre. Fifty additional microphone pick-up points are being established in this building and throughout Chicago. Mutual has assigned 150 persons to Chicago for the conventions. So coverage will be extensive and complete over Mutual Don Lee, via KRNR.

Tourists Visit Oregon Capitol

Students and tourists visiting Oregon's capitol building in Salem during the month of May tallied 8,063. This averages about 269 persons a day. Secretary of State Earl T. Newby points out.

The regular tourist season has just started and two young women have been named to assist veteran guide James McGilchrist. The assistants are Mary Louise Lee and Sally Jo Grimm, both Willamette University students. Miss Lee is starting her third summer working in the capitol building, and states that is one type of work which never gets old or boring, since each new set of visitors has new questions and problems. This will be Miss Grimm's first year.

Walkie-talkies, other special equipment, reference texts and the ability to ad lib are "musts" for radio reporters at presidential nominating conventions. Mutual-Don Lee's corps has added a new one to the list—quick clothing changes.

Six hundred and thirty man-years of experience at steamrolling conclaves background this decision by Mutual-Don Lee newsmen. They know that a reporter or commentator cannot work at his or her best while in drenched attire. Air conditioning works well in studios. But most of the important broadcast material is aired directly from the floor sessions and smoke-filled hotel rooms.

That is why specially screened clothing closets have been installed in each broadcasting booth. Mutual-Don Lee is constructing in Chicago's International Amphitheatre, site of both the Republican and Democratic sessions, in hotels and other headquarters suites. All mutual-Don Lee commentators and newscasters will be covering these important July sessions. The voices of such famed Mutual newsmen and women as Fulton Lewis Jr., Gabriel Heatter, Cedric Belfrage, Cecil Brown, Fred Van Deventer, H. R. Baugh, Robert F. Hurleigh, Les Nichols, Frank Edwards, William Hillman, Bill Cunningham, Les Higbie, Everett Holles, Havel Markey, Helen Hall, Frank Singuec and Ed Pettit will all be heard commenting and reporting the activities that will ultimately decide which candidate will be elected the 34th President of the United States. Mutual-Don Lee newsmen Bill Henry, who will also be airing his nightly digests from Chicago these weeks, coordinated radio-television coverage as chairman of a correspondents committee.

News-making Show! Also Sited
Such news-making Mutual-Don Lee shows as the regularly scheduled "Reporters' Roundup" and "War Front" are also to originate from Chicago these weeks. In addition, Mutual-Don Lee plans innumerable special programs from the convention city, both preceding and following the actual meeting.

The GOP session is scheduled from Monday, July 7, through Saturday, July 12, while the Democrats meet from Monday, July 21, through Saturday, July 26. Mutual-Don Lee will coordinate
