The Greatest Knowledge

When Isaac Newton, famous English scientist, lay on his deathbed, he said to a friend, "I have learned two great facts, one is that I am a great sinner, the other, that Jesus Christ is an even greater Savior."

He who has learned that, has learned all that is really necessary to know. He who has not learned that, has missed life's greatest knowledge.

The most illustrious of Christ's disciples confessed "I know that in me dwelleth no good thing." Paul knew that no matter how good he was, he was still a sinner; and as such he could not gain God's favor.

But he also knew that through Christ he had obtained complete forgiveness. Christ had died for his sins. Christ was his Savior!

All the libraries in the world contain no greater knowledge. Have you found this knowledge — than which there is none greater?

Three Employers Face Law Violation Charges

SALEM — Three Klamath County employers have been convicted of violating the state wages and hours act, Labor Commissioner W. E. Kimsey said Thursday. He did not identify them.

Kimsey said court action against a fourth is pending. A two-month survey of the area has just been completed by the State Labor Department, he said.

One of those convicted refused to open payroll records for inspection, as required by law, the commissioner said. The two others violated regulations which limit the work week to 44 hours. One had a work week of 56 hours and the other 63.

Some other employers were ordered to reimburse their employees for overtime work. Three firms were cited for having unsanitary rest rooms for employees.
