Oregon Traffic Deaths In June Hit Record Pace

Death is riding Oregon highways this month, as accidents reported to the Secretary of State's office reflect sharp increases in traffic fatalities.

In seven days 10 people lost their lives in traffic, seven in only three accidents and three in "freak" mishaps, the department's traffic safety division reported Friday. Reports now in the mail are expected to bring the toll for the first two weeks to at least 15.

Multiple death accidents were responsible for the high toll to date. Four people were killed in Clatsop county on June 6, when the driver lost control of the car after attempting a left turn and it plunged through a guard rail into a river.

Two died in a Jackson county mishap when a truck trailer skidded to the left, and struck their car. A dramatic account of this accident was provided by a witness who could see what was going to happen, he said, about 25 yards before the collision.

He stopped, and ran back across the highway to the truck, and found the truck driver beside the wrecked car. "I asked if there was anyone who needed assistance," the witness later told police.

"I think they're dead," the driver replied. "I also felt they were beyond help," the witness concluded. Another freak accident killed one man when a gas tank fell from a truck on to a Josephine county highway and exploded under his car.

Spraying Of Budworms Will Begin Next Week

SALEM — Spraying 640,000 acres of Oregon forests to kill spruce budworm probably will begin next week, the State Forestry Department said Friday.

The project will begin as soon as the worms emerge. The plan calls for the State Forestry Department to spray 365,000 acres, and for the U. S. Forest Service to spray 280,000 acres.

The state will spray lands in northeastern Oregon, while the federal forest service will spray areas in the Mount Hood and Willamette National Forests and on the Warm Springs Indian Reservation.

The spraying will cost $1 an acre, including materials and the cost of spreading it by private contractors. The spraying program started in 1948. Since that time, 1,238,000 acres have been sprayed. About one million acres still must be sprayed, and the project will end next year.

Atom Submarine Engine Nearly Ready For Test

GROTON, Conn. — President Truman disclosed Saturday that a "full-size, working" atomic engine for submarines is almost completed for test runs.

The President gave out the news in an address prepared for delivery at the ceremonies here in connection with the laying of the keel for the nation's first atomic powered submarine, the Nautilus.

At the same time he hit out hard at what he called dangerous efforts to sell the American people on the idea that there is "some cut-rate, bargain-counter route" to national security.

And he swung a punch at Gen. Eisenhower, one of the front-running candidates for the Republican presidential nomination.

He said he had heard the other day that "somebody" was talking about a 40 billion dollar tax cut. That was an obvious reference to a statement attributed to the general.

Truman commented that "politics does funny things to people who are seeking office and criticized "passion for economy regardless of the consequences" which he said is rampant in Congress.

Advice Given Persons Who Will Retire

Individuals intending to retire from employment during 1952 with the expectation of obtaining the highest possible monthly social security benefits under the new method of figuring these benefits should consult the Eugene social security office for advice before making a decision.

Claude E. Dawson, manager of the Eugene social security office, says that social security offices will begin this year to figure benefits under the new formula, which went into effect on January 1, 1951.

He points out, however, that only the old method can be used in figuring benefits on claims filed before April 1, 1952. On claims filed after that time, the social security office will be able to determine which of the two methods will bring the largest benefit. For that reason, it is decidedly to the benefit of the person contemplating retirement to contact the Eugene social security office for advance information as to the most advantageous time to file a claim.

Persons now eligible for benefits will get payments sooner by filing a claim now, but it may be that by waiting until later their benefit amounts will be larger. Those nearing 65 can receive full information from the social security office and can then make their own decision.

Present beneficiaries are not affected by the new method; only those who qualify under the recent amendments are in a position to receive the larger benefits Dawson states.

Self-employed persons filing claims during 1952 will get as high a benefit as will be possible by delaying the filing until after the end of this year.

A representative of the social security office will be in Roseburg on Tuesday, June 17, 1952, at the City Hall Council Chambers between the hours of 8:30 a. m. and noon.

Ideal Oregon Housedresses To Be Displayed

The July Farm Journal will feature a color story, "Dresses That Work With You," which Betty J. Paterson, County Home Extension Agent, thinks will be of interest to all women of Douglas county.

These housedress designs are based on features Oregon farm homemakers said they wanted in housedresses — you may have heard about Oregon State College's research. The dresses will be on display in the pattern and piece goods department of Meier and Frank, Portland, for two weeks beginning June 16. If you are in Portland during this time, you can examine the actual dresses and the features that make them especially serviceable.

The Oregon findings were taken to Simplicity Pattern Company and as a result the patterns for the five dresses shown will be placed on sale — in fact, will be available at the time of the display. These features will give better service because they have been pretested by homemakers under work conditions and you might say "built" to go away with the sleeves ripping out, buttons popping off, and other expensive annoyances.

N. pilots said they smashed the airport at 200 points with high explosives and demolition bombs. The airstrip is four miles east of Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

Gain In Members Told Methodists

SEATTLE — More than 500 Methodists here for the 79th annual Pacific Northwest conference were told Wednesday a membership gain of 9,500 in the past year "proves the Methodist Church has lost none of its evangelistic fervor."

The speaker, the Rev. Dr. Gerald Kennedy, bishop of the Portland area, took sharp exception to what he termed "recent remarks" the church "is not an evangelistic church."

"I am getting sick and tired of this kind of talk and of people apologizing for Methodism supposedly losing its evangelism," Bishop Kennedy declared.

The increase in membership which he said was the largest in the history of the conference "certainly proves the Methodist Church has lost none of its evangelistic fervor."

Dollar Settles With U.S. Over Steamship Line

WASHINGTON — The government and the R. Stanley Dollar interests Thursday settled their five-year court fight over control of the big Dollar Steamship Line.

Terms of the settlement provide: 1. The controlling stock interest in the line claimed by both will be put up at public sale at any price above 14 million dollars in cash.

2. The winner on sealed bids will get the 92 per cent block of stock and the government and the Dollar interest will divide the proceeds.

3. If the public sale fails to bring a bid of 14 million dollars or more, the stock will be divided equally between the government and the dollar interest.

In any event, Secretary of Commerce Sawyer said, the government intends to get out of the line and return it to private operation.

During court proceedings, the 92 per cent block of stock was estimated to be worth 69 million dollars but Sawyer said Thursday it net value of the line was about 32 million at the end of 1951.

Its ownership has been in dispute due to circumstances of a government loan of 4 1/2 million dollars. The government contended, and Dollar denied, that the stock back of the loan had been surrendered to it.

The settlement agreement provided that the Dollar interests may bid for the stock by themselves or join others in doing so. Sawyer's news conference announcement was the first public word that the stock is available for purchase.

Striking Bakers Vote On Employers' Offer

By The Associated Press
AFL bakers in Tacoma and Portland were voting Thursday on the employers' latest offer in the six-week-old Pacific Northwest bakery strike. And in Tacoma at least there was a possibility the walk-out at seven major bakeries might be nearing an end.

Union Representative Rudolph Davis said Tacoma bakers were offered a six cents an hour wage increase but no change in days off. He said the union was recommending its acceptance.

Bakers at 25 strikebound Portland shops were offered a $5 weekly increase and an employer-paid welfare plan costing management $8.50 per man a month.

J. C. Crawford, union secretary, said the offer also includes a five day work week with Saturday and one other day off. The schedule will be decided in each plant.

Bakers in Portland, Tacoma, Seattle and Spokane went on strike May 2. A demand for Saturdays and Sundays off was one of the major issues.

Spokane bakers reached an agreement early this week and returned to their jobs.

YOUR BODY

ROSEBURG, OREGON — These health articles are written and paid for by Dr. B. A. SMITH, Chiropractic Physician, 1500 Garden Valley Road, in the interest of public health and to help you understand the body function. Look for these informative articles every Saturday.

Arthritis, commonly called rheumatism, ranks first among the disabling diseases. It includes a large group of diseases with a great variety of signs and symptoms, they are however grouped together because of their tendency to involve the bony structures of joints. The term "chronic arthritis" refers primarily to involvements of joints. It is somewhat incorrect since the view is widely accepted that this is a systemic or general bodily disease, not a local manifestation which involves only the joints. There are several types of arthritis which must be differentiated between.

Many muscle and tendon diseases are mistaken for chronic arthritis. If there is disturbance in one or more joints it must be determined whether the involvement is part of a general systemic disease or is a complication of some injury, disturbed surface blood circulation, tumors, cysts, loose fragments of cartilage in the joints, bone disease next to joints, or of any other condition.

All arthritic joint conditions may, for convenience, be divided into two classes: those whose causes are known, and those whose cause must be carefully determined by examination, which are generally regarded as metabolic disorders. In the known cause group, there is the infective arthritis in which the bacteria have been identified; the infective invasion of the joint may occur from within or from outside the body. The germs which cause arthritis in this category are those of gonorrhea, tuberculosis, scarlet fever, influenza, diphtheria, measles, streptococci, staphylococci, viruses and etc.

Arthritis may also be caused by injury and disturbances of the physiologic function. In the latter group the cause is to be found in scurvy, rickets, loss of bone substance, beriberi, diabetes. Serum sickness sometimes cause arthritis. Then, again, tumors within or outside of joints may bring on arthritis, as well as loose cartilage fragments within the joints. Strange forms of arthritis sometimes follow emotional strain, especially hysteria.
