Three OSC Students Are Honored By Societies

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis — Three Oregon State College students from Roseburg have been recognized in campus honor societies.

Dennis Samuelson, junior in business and technology, has been selected First Sergeant of Company G, Second Regiment of Scabard and Blade, national honors for advanced military students. Samuelson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Samuelson, 1028 S. Main St.

Tau Beta Pi, national engineering honor fraternity, has chosen

LaVern Marsters, son of L. L. Marsters of Roseburg, as treasurer. He is a junior in electrical engineering.

Frank Olson received one of six annual awards given by Tau Beta Pi for outstanding freshmen in engineering. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman G. Olson, 420 W. Douglas.

Bob Grant away for a week on vacation cuts KRNR's announcer staff. . . Bob is absorbing the fabulous bill of fare of the "Biggest Little City in the World," Reno, Nevada. Next week, more KRNR staff members exit via the vacation route. . . Warren Ward, commercial manager, forgets radio sales, and samples the leisure of the beach and a trip to Eastern Oregon. Jim Davis, evening engineer, takes a seven-day jaunt to undisclosed points.

Gold and valuable treasures were the rewards awaiting archeologists searching for a tomb of an ancient pharaoh. But tragedy strikes when two of the party die under mysterious circumstances. When the deaths are attributed to a mummy's curse, Christopher Casanova (Errol Flynn) is assigned by Worldpol to investigate. What he discovers provides an action-packed drama for Mutual-Don Lee's "Modern Adventures of Casanova," broadcast, tonight, 7:00-7:30.

Mutual-Don Lee commentator Cecil Brown is the kind of reporter who prefers gathering his own facts, but if he can't do that he sprinkles his daily news broadcasts with his personal knowledge of the places and things about which he is reporting.

And he has a vast storage of knowledge. For Brown is one of the most widely traveled commentators in radio today. During his most recent round-the-world trips Brown was the last newsmen to interview Pakistani Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan before he

OSC Man Writes Book On Administration

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis — A new book on college and university business administration, of which Harvey Sherer, assistant business manager of Oregon State College, was associate researcher and basic manuscript author, will be published in August by the American Council on Education.

The new volume was prepared under the auspices of a national committee of leading college business administration authorities, including H. A. Bork, comptroller in charge of the Oregon State System of Higher Education. It covers accounting, organization and budgets. A second volume, now in preparation, will cover administration.

was assassinated at Rawalpindi. The Prime Minister's remarks were aired the same day he was killed.

Brown has the knack of being "Johnny-on-the-spot" when news is being made. He was on the H.M.S. Repulse when the Japs sank the British heavy cruiser during World War II and reported the story from Singapore a few hours later — his teeth still chattering.

He is the holder of the George Foster Peabody, Overseas Press Club and National Headliners Club Awards for his outstanding news broadcasts. Brown will be in Chicago for the Democratic and Republican presidential nominating conventions this summer to report the proceedings for Mutual-Don Lee listeners. His news commentaries are Mutual-Don Lee features every day of the week.
