Aged Pair Bids 'Henry' Goodbye; No New License

By PAUL WELLS

SEATTLE (AP) — The spry little couple with the 31-year-old car said goodby to "Old Henry" today, hung black crepe on their garage door and put behind them any plans for new carefree trips across the land.

It was the end of a saga for Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hielscher, both 85. His eyes, not their pioneer spirit, have dimmed.

The Hielschers have put more than 150,000 on their spotlessly kept 1921 Model T Ford touring car, traveling to St. Paul in 1947 and again in 1951 to celebrate their 56th and 60th wedding anniversaries.

It was in a small church there they were married in 1891.

Never in their dauntless ventures have they hesitated or been afraid. He always sat erect with a firm grip on the wheel; she there beside him watching the speedometer closely so "Old Henry" was never strained.

Now all that is past. The old gentleman got the final word yesterday. His application for renewal of his driver's license was rejected.

"The eyes are not so good," he said.

In a little thank you note to their friends, which they handed in to a Seattle newspaper, they said:

"We shall miss our faithful Model T like a lost child, but in the words of 'An Indians' Soliloquy':

I see the mighty trees decay,
And darkness comes at the close of day.
I see the waters flow down to the sea.
Why should that not happen to me?
