Folks Still Say Strange Objects Observed In Sky

Flying saucers, fireballs — the Air Force says there are no such things.

Yet reports repeatedly are coming in by persons all over the nation saying they have seen strange objects in our skies.

Arthur Marsh, prominent farmer of the Lookingglass area, reports having seen what he called a "fireball" about 10:20 Wednesday night.

Marsh says he had been milking late when he observed a strange object, about "half the size of a new moon" traveling at a "high rate of speed."

The object, which appeared to have a very white center ringed with red, was easterly from his place, about 10 to 15 degrees above the horizon, and traveling in a northerly direction.

He described its speed as about that of a falling star.

This is the second report of a similar nature in the Roseburg area, and ties in closely with similar reports over the nation within the last couple of weeks.

Gerald Burgess of Weatherford Apartments, Oak and Lane Streets, reported having seen about 10 p.m. Sunday, July 6, round objects, some 10,000 feet in the air and traveling about 10 minutes time apart.

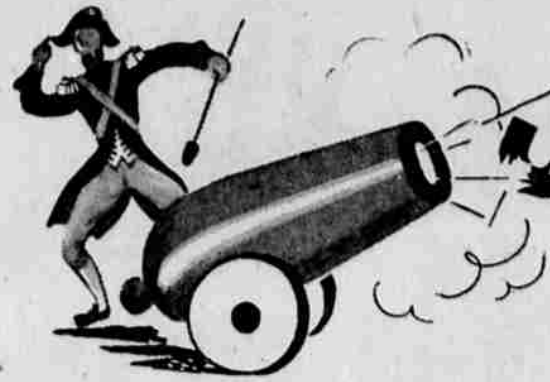

He described them as giving off an eerie, blue light. They appeared approximately 100 miles northeast of the airport, and traveling at a high rate of speed. He estimated their speed at around 1000 miles per hour, as compared with the speed of a plane, which flew over about the same time.

Mine Safety Bill Gets Truman's Signature

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman has signed a bill that permits the government to close coal mines it considers unsafe.

But he says the measure isn't really strong enough to prevent disaster.

The President, in signing the measure Wednesday, said it was a significant step toward ending "the appalling toll of death and injury to miners."
