Girls To Be Admitted Free If Escorts Have Whiskers

Wives and girl friends who have been grumbling about their hairy-faced male partners in recent weeks can smile this weekend at the Roseburg Armory wrestling bouts.

In conjunction with the Douglas County Centennial, Matchmaker Elton Owen announces that women accompanying bearded men get a free pass to the general admission seats. The men themselves will be grooming for Saturday's whisker contest. Owen cites the only rule as "having a good beard."

Meanwhile, the mat action pits Jack Kiser in a demanded rematch with the Black Prince, who vanquished the young Portlander by way of a referee's decision last week.

The rematched main event has developed into a grudge affair since Kiser has sworn to get even. To add spice to the battle, the masked Black Prince agrees to unmask in the event he is defeated by Kiser. He refuses if it is a referee's disqualification, however.

Guessing is rife regarding the Prince's identity, but many a guess was exploded at last week's match that it was the formidable Gray Mask of some years back.

Kiser is definitely unhappy by his loss on a referee's decision. He claims that he was able to continue the match in spite of his bleeding forehead. The referee disagreed as did the Roseburg Wrestling Commission. The even match was stopped after the Prince used a series of head butts to open a cut over Kiser's eye.

The semi-final pits Maurice La Chapelle against Bullet Bob Cummings. Bill Fletcher meets Dale Kiser in the special event opener.

Oaks Lace S.F. Twice, 3-1, 8-5

By The Associated Press

At long last, the Pacific Coast League pennant race seems to be shaping itself into a two-team race, with Hollywood and Oakland the class of the contestants.

The Oaks chipped a half-game off the Hollywood hold on first place Tuesday night by defeating San Francisco in a double-header, 3 to 1 in the opener, and 8-5 in the second contest.

Hollywood collected nine runs in a wild third inning and drove Chesty Chet Johnson from the mound.

Los Angeles was rained out at Seattle, but Portland went on a slugging spree at San Diego, won the ball game 16 to 3, and put the Padres six games behind the league leaders. Pitchers Guy Fletcher and Bob Malloy couldn't hold the resurging Beavers, and infielder Whitely Wietelmann was given the chore of finishing up, but he fared no better.

Hank Aert, the Portland first sacker, got a triple and a homer and batted in five runs.

PRICE READY FOR ACTION

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Price, champion ground gainer of the National Football League, has signed with the New York Giants and is ready to pick up where he left off last season. Price is the Iron Man fullback who in 1951 carried the ball more often than any player in NFL history.
