

Glendale Church Places In Contest

The Glendale Assembly of God has just received a $50 award as fourth place winner in the annual Town and Country Church Improvement contest which is sponsored jointly by the Oregon Council of Churches and the Sears Roebuck Foundation, which provides cash for the awards.

Mrs. Howard Hutto, a member of the Glendale Assembly of God, was designated by the local group to attend sessions of the Sixth Annual Leadership Institute for Town and Country Churches at Corvallis, July 15, to accept the award for the church.

Class III, the classification in which the local church competed, is comprised of churches in towns of 1,000 to 2,500 population. Presentation was made by H. E. Cameron of the Sears Roebuck Foundation in Seattle. The contest was open to all denominations and was participated in by 56 town and country churches in the state.

A long list of improvements on the church property, including both church and parsonage, was outlined by the local pastor, Rev. Ed Graffstrom, in entering the contest for the Glendale Assembly of God. They included installation of hot and cold air ducts from the furnace to the auditorium and all the classrooms and graving of the church parking strip.

Improvements on the parsonage included the installation of kitchen cupboards and work shelves, window and door casings and mop boards, and the finishing of closets with sheet rock. Outside the parsonage, dirt was hauled to the front yard which was then leveled and landscaped. All the work was done by members of the local congregation.

Oregon State Parks have been almost bursting at their seams with overnight campers since the Highway Commission inaugurated its overnight camping program, according to a preliminary survey made by C. H. Armstrong, parks superintendent. His records show that a total of better than 3,600 people took advantage of the overnight camping privileges during the month of June last as compared to some 1,545 in May. Armitage Park, on the McKenzie River, jumped its record from 2 cars containing eight people in May to 22 cars and 106 in June. Emigrant Springs in Union county reported 79 campers in May with 414 in June. Humboldt Mountain Park on the Coast north of Port Orford, had 146 overnight visitors in 43 cars in May but entertained 222 cars with 737 campers in June. Silver Falls had 58 all night visitors in May compared to 181 in June while Walla Walla entertained 275 in May and 540 in June. This is the story, partially told, of the first two months of vacation time, and the first two of overnight camping. Superintendent Armstrong is wondering what will happen when vacation travel reaches its peak.

Eight Cited In Glendale Justice Of Peace Court

Al Mohr, Glendale justice of the peace, reports the following cases in his court from July 3 to 19: Paul Barrott, no operator's license, $10; George W. Stackhouse, no operator's license, $10; William B. Dyer, overlength load, $10; Ivan C. Chalk, passing with insufficient vision, $15; Gerald Dean Smith, overheight load, $10; Wallace Lee Dunke, no stop light, $10; Stephen R. Price, overload, $149.75; Pike and Rondeau, owners, Fred Mendenhall, driver, overwidth, $10.

Alex Pavlov, Architect, Establishes Own Office

Alex Pavlov, Roseburg architect, announces the end of his association with R. F. Fisher of Grants Pass and the continuation of his Roseburg office at its present location, his home, at 957 Terrace Avenue.

Pavlov established his office here six months ago, and plans to continue his practice in architecture and planning. He is registered in the state of Oregon.
