Stricken Areas Are Given Aid By Red Cross

People too often forget the work of the Red Cross until disaster strikes, said County Chairman Calvin Baird.

Baird called attention today to the work of the Red Cross in the earthquake disaster at Tehachapi, Arvin and Bakersfield, Calif.

Fifty volunteers from Bakersfield, Los Angeles and Antelope Valley chapters and branches brought Red Cross emergency assistance to disaster victims in Tehachapi in early hours after the earthquake shook Southern California July 21, according to information received by the local chairman.

First survey indicated 700 families in Tehachapi and Arvin were stricken. Field Red Cross chairman were first on the scene with doctors, nurses, and first aiders, bringing medical supplies, canteen personnel and equipment, most of which were flown in by planes of the Civil Air Patrol. Also tents, coats, blankets and food were sent in.

Very little earthquake insurance coverage was carried, and the people will all need help, the report stated.

Baird said that, while no plea has been sent out on a nationwide basis for relief funds, contributions, either to the local chapter office or direct to the relief agencies in charge, will be accepted.

Shakespearean Festival Opens On August 1

ASHLAND — The magic spell of William Shakespeare cast itself over Ashland, and promised to attract people from every state in the union and several foreign countries to the city during the month of August.

The 12th annual Oregon Shakespearean festival will get underway on Aug. 1 with the presentation of a Shakespearean fantasy, "The Tempest." Then in rotation through the month of August, four of the Bard's plays will be presented in rotation on the Elizabethan stage within Ashland's open-air theater on the edge of Lithia park.

Other plays to be presented during the 12th season will be "Henry V," "Julius Caesar" and "Much Ado About Nothing."

Every indication — advance sales, an extended season and an expanded festival program — points to the 1952 festival being the largest in history, with more than 15,000 persons expected to attend during the 30-day season.

New this year in the festival program is a full scale music department, under the direction of Hans Lampl, a University of Southern California music professor and a student of Elizabethan music.

Directorship of the festival is again being headed by Angus Bowmer, who founded the festival in 1935. Bowmer, who is a professor at Ashland's Southern Oregon college, will again be producing director of the festival and will be director of one of the plays — "Much Ado About Nothing."

Richard Graham, New York, a festival veteran who drew nationwide attention for his portrayal of "King Lear" last season, is directing "The Tempest."

Allen Fletcher of Yale University returns to the festival staff this year as director of "Julius Caesar," and Philip Hanson, Ashland, another seasoned festival director and player, is directing "Henry V."

Reservations for the festival or information about the festival may be obtained by simply writing to "Shakespeare," Ashland, Ore.
