Conventions Turned Backs On Professional Politicians In Naming 'Reluctant' Men

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The selection of Gen. Eisenhower and Gov. Stevenson as presidential candidates will go down as one of the most extraordinary events in American political history for more than one.

Both were reluctant candidates. Great support had been built up for both before either man actually said he would accept nomination.

Eisenhower didn't say so until last January although the campaign among his supporters to get him nominated had begun long before that.

Stevenson never publicly said he would accept until Friday before the third and final balloting began.

Stevenson never said one word in behalf of himself through all the months when Sen. Kefauver, Kerr and Russell and Averell Harriman were making speeches and looking for votes.

Eisenhower did not campaign at all until the last month before the Republican convention although his chief rival Sen. Taft, traveled through at least 38 states and probably set an American record for pre-convention speeches and interviews.

Political newcomers

Both men are newcomers to politics. Eisenhower even more than Stevenson. The general had never been in politics before.

Stevenson had taken no part in politics until 1947 when he agreed, after weeks of hesitation and soul-searching, to be a Democratic candidate for governor of Illinois.

So now, as he begins his campaign for the presidency, Stevenson will have had behind him only four years' experience in politics. But perhaps more extraordinary than all this is the fact that the country as a whole knew practically nothing at all about the thinking of either man on domestic affairs until shortly before the conventions.

Everyone knew Eisenhower's views on international life. He was a firm supporter of the Truman administration's policy of standing united with Europe and helping rearm it.

But, except for some scattered statements he made while he was president of Columbia University—statements which revealed very little of his knowledge of domestic affairs—the general public knew almost nothing of Eisenhower's thinking on affairs at home.

This didn't seem to bother the people who voted in the state primaries where they picked him, as in New Hampshire, over Sen. Taft who had spent years making his views known.

It wasn't until he came back to this country last June that Eisenhower began to express opinions on domestic problems. And then he disclosed he didn't know much about them.

This didn't deter the delegates to the Republican convention. They, too, like the people in the primaries, preferred him to Taft.

Except for some vague knowledge about Stevenson—that he had been a good governor in Illinois and had some experience in the foreign field while working for the State Department—the general public didn't know much about him.

Gradually word seemed to get around that he was a sort of middle-of-the-roader. But it's doubtful that more than a handful of delegates at any kind of detailed knowledge of where Stevenson stood on a host of domestic issues.

In short, this was the year when the conventions turned their backs on the professional politicians like Taft and Kefauver, whose views they knew well, to pick newcomers more on faith than knowledge.

Anti-Truman Candidates Win Texas Primary

By CLAYTON HICKERSON
DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — More than a million Texas voters turned a political cold shoulder to Washington Saturday as they swept Gov. Allan Shivers and Price Daniel, state attorney general, back into office.

Both are anti-Truman administration democrats.

Shivers beat down the double-barreled challenge of Austin attorney Ralph Yarborough, backed by the pro-Truman faction of the state Democratic party, and Mrs. Allene Traylor, San Antonio housewife.

Daniel besieged by Rep. Lindley Beckwith, regarded as a Truman administration favorite, and E. W. Napier, an unknown Wichita Falls attorney, went into office handily as the successor to colorful U. S. Sen. Tom Connally.

The voting was in the Democratic primary in which nomination usually means election in heavily-Democratic Texas.

Another battle between state party factions over the binding of presidential electors to national party nominees seemed a sure thing for the September state convention.

Meanwhile, it appeared Martin Dies, original chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, faced a runoff with former Lieut. Gov. John Lee Smith of Lubbock for Congressman-At-Large.

Keep Your Auto Free Of Stickers

"Don't make yours a label or sticker vacation!" This is the advice given by Merle Pugh, safety director of the Oregon State Motor Association, affiliated with the AAA.

"Decals and stickers," he said, "have their place on the windshields of cars when they are required by law. Otherwise, there should be nothing on the windshield to obscure the vision of the driver or his passengers."

Political slogans, symbols and designs are much in vogue this year, he added, "but don't make your automobile a billboard, even if these colored and printed appeals are pasted on the side windows. Give those who ride in your car a chance to see something other than the back of a label. Illustrated travel stickers, from every state in the union and province of Canada, are on sale in novelty and drug stores, and their gummed back surfacing is a constant source of temptation to plaster one on a car window."

"The rear window also," the AAA official said, "should be scrupulously kept free of these so-called decorations, whether they be political, geographical or collegiate."

Pilot Only One Of 7 Surviving Bomber Crash

ARTHUR, Neb. (AP) — A B-25 Air Force bomber, its starboard engine ablaze, crashed and exploded late Sunday in this sparsely settled sandhills area of Western Nebraska.

Of seven persons aboard, only one, the pilot, survived. He parachuted to safety.

The plane, based at Andrews Air Force base near Washington, D. C., had refueled at the Lincoln, Neb., Naval Air Station and was en route to Mountain Home (Ida.) Air Force Base.

The survivor is Col. John G. Erikson of Arlington, Va.

Identified the others aboard was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

KAMLOOPS, B. C. (AP) — Pilot John Ferguson of Longview, Wash., and a 14-year-old passenger are in Klamath Hospital after his light plane crashed near Clinton, B. C., Friday.

Ferguson suffered a fractured hip. Carol Rankin sustained a possible fractured wrist.

Howard Wrangell and the pilot's two sons, Grant and Neil, escaped injury.

A B. C. forestry plane flew Ferguson and Miss Wrangell to Kamloops Saturday.

Dutch early settlers in what is now the United States called the Delaware the South River to distinguish it from the Hudson which they called the North River and the lower reaches of the Hudson are still called the North River.

CHOCOLATE CAKE TOPS

NEW YORK (AP) — Chocolate cake may well be a White House favorite in 1953, according to a survey by a firm (Rockwood Co.) which queried the officials by letter.

Chocolate won the nod in the poll of presidential candidates and U. S. senators. Of the senators who voted, over 36 percent preferred chocolate or devil's food cake.

This group included Sen. Robert A. Taft, Sen. Estes Kefauver and Gov. Earl Warren.

Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson prefers an old-time favorite, Lady Baltimore cake, a white cake topped with a date, raisin and nut frosting. Sen. Robert S. Kerr decided on the sponge cake.

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower said he had no particular favorite.

NOSE DROPS FOOL EWE

NEW YORK (AP) — A New York chemical company investigated the cause of a large order of nose drops from a Utah sheep herder.

The sheepman explained that an ewe ordinarily will refuse to nurse lambs not her own. He said he put the drops into the noses of ewes so they would accept and "mother" orphan lambs.

One drop, he said, made one small lamb seem much like any other, so far as the ewe's nose was concerned.

Rival Unionists Clash; 4 Stabbed

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Rival unionists clashed Monday outside the Allis-Chalmers plant and at least five men were stabbed and beaten.

About 60 police officers led by Chief Frank Riddle charged in swinging night sticks, broke up the disorder and arrested two men on charges of assault and battery.

The disorder started when about 100 members of the AFL, International Union of Operating Engineers charged a picket line set up by the CIO United Auto Workers.

Riddle said some of the injured apparently were stabbed with broken bottles and others were clubbed.

Five of the injured were taken to a hospital and the condition of one of them, John Martin of Paris, Ill., was described as critical.

After the brief skirmish, the two factions withdrew to opposite sides of the street and shouted invective across the open area patrolled by police.

Air Defense Filter Centers like this one keep sharp watch on the flight of all unidentified aircraft.

New, fast "dial" air raid warning system

"Bell and Lights" plan can instantly flash warnings to an almost unlimited number of places by the simple turn of a dial.

An unidentified aircraft appears somewhere above the West Coast. A Ground Observer picks up his telephone. Instantly, his report is carried over special telephone lines to a Key Point Warning Center. From there the new "Bell and Lights" attack warning system—developed by the Bell Laboratories and now available for general use—can flash the warning to an almost unlimited number of stations. Within minutes, the entire United States could be alerted! This amazing plan represents just one more way in which your telephone system works closely with Civil Defense to keep America strong.

This ingenious master dial is the basic "nerve center" of the "Bell and Lights" warning system. To alert all connected stations, the control official merely dials, as he would a telephone, one of four colors—yellow, blue, red or white—which flashes the degree of the alert to receiving units which may be located at Civil Defense, police, fire and other key stations. In addition, when authorized by Civil Defense, receiving units can be installed in defense plants, schools, hospitals and other important locations. When a warning is "dialed" at the control point, a bell rings, and a colored light flashes at the receiving unit...allowing precious minutes to mobilize and prepare for any emergency that may come.

Your telephone is one of today's best bargains

In these days of continuing high prices, it's reassuring to know that telephone rates have gone up far less than prices on most things you buy. In fact, the cost of a telephone call remains so low that it is an outstanding buy in any budget—your home's or your nation's.
