STEALS COP'S GLOVES

DENVER — A man held in city jail Saturday was accused of stealing the gloves of an officer who gave him a traffic ticket.

The patrolman said that when he returned to his motorcycle, his gloves were gone. He caught the man's car after a short chase and found his gloves in the possession of the driver.

Ruckus Report Silly, Margaret Truman States

HELSINKI, Finland — "I believe it must all have been a simple misunderstanding."

That was Margaret Truman's statement at a news conference Thursday over the ruckus kicked up by Swedish newspapers over alleged "tough guy" tactics used in Stockholm by her bodyguards.

The President's daughter had other descriptions, too, such as "much ado about nothing," and "It was really silly" about accounts in Stockholm newspapers such as the one published by Expressen, which said the bodyguards—members of the U. S. Secret Service flung aside a photographer who tried to take Miss Truman's picture at Stockholm's central station.

She said that no member of her entourage had ever forbidden pictures being taken of her.

Miss Truman arrived here Thursday on her European tour. Photographers snapped as many pictures as they wanted while her three-man bodyguard remained discreetly in the background. She plans a two-day stay in Finland.

Aftonbladet, Sweden's biggest newspaper, called the Secret Service men "gorillas."

It said they were uncouth and intercepted Swedes who wanted to pass "any place where it pleases Miss Truman to be at a given moment."

Then Aftonbladet flung a barb: DENVER — A man held in city jail Saturday was accused of stealing the gloves of an officer who gave him a traffic ticket.

The patrolman said that when he returned to his motorcycle, his gloves were gone. He caught the man's car after a short chase and found his gloves in the possession of the driver.

Over 700 complained that the size of their checks were too small, but virtually all of these withdrew their complaints after being sent a copy of the Oregon bonus law. The 252 protests are largely on the basis of eligibility.
