'Blood Money' Racket Believed To Be Solved

WASHINGTON — The treasury announced that a San Francisco trading firm was indicted Friday on charges of slipping U.S. money through Hong Kong to Communist China.

An enforcement official at the Foreign Assets Control Agency in the treasury said at least part of the money sent was probably "blood money" demanded by Chinese Communists.

The official said the indicted firm's remittances reached a peak in the latter part of 1951 when the long-distance extortion racket was at its highest.

Chinese Communists threatened to persecute friends or family members in the old country of China here if they did not remit money to Red China sources. The Treasury announcement said the indictment charges that the Min San Trading Company of San Francisco sent $161,848 from China in this country to Red China. The announcement named Tom Hanbock of San Francisco as manager of the company.

It said a federal grand jury at San Francisco indicted Hanbock and the trading company on 17 counts of violating foreign assets control regulations from January through November, 1951.

USERS REPORT: "Half the wear, twice the mileage"

It used to be that engines at work for Timber Products Company, Medford, Oregon, showed wear of .016" to .020" after 75,000 miles of service. Then came today's Heavy Duty RPM Motor Oil, and just .008" wear after 130,000 miles... or as the lumberman himself says it, "By using 'RPM' we get half the wear in twice the mileage." Cut your repair costs, and get better performance. Spend the money you save on things that are more fun to buy.
