Taft Says HST Statement Untrue

CINCINNATI — Sen. Robert A. Taft said last night it is "outrageous" to link the Republicans and their presidential candidate, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, with "anti-Semitism," "anti-Catholicism" and "anti-foreignism."

Taft said that false Democratic claims that Republicans would repeal the Minimum Wage Law and abolish social security if elected, he said.

Applause Greet Men Of Song In Popular Program

By LEROY INMAN. If applause is any indication, the Men of Song program at the Junior High Thursday night was one of the most popular of the Community Concert series to come to Roseburg for a long time.

The four singers and their pianist arranger were all soloists in their own rights before the group was formed by Edmond Karlrud, bass. The presentations were so arranged to give each adequate opportunity to demonstrate his own individual talent.

Umpqua Scouts Repair Steps On Community Hall

By MRS. GEORGE MUNSON

The Boy Scouts at Umpqua spent a part of their meeting time this week putting in new steps at the Community Hall where they met.

The steps were badly in need of repair so the Scouts put in a new set. It was a first-class job, officials reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Mode left Thursday on a trip through California. They plan to visit in San Francisco and then go on to Los Angeles.

Alton Hebard and his son, Corky, and his father, Henry Hebard, left this week for a hunting trip to Eastern Oregon.

The Umpqua Sunday school will be hosts to some of the other rural Sunday Schools of this part of the county this Sunday.

They plan a potluck dinner at noon and a program after. Mrs. Melrose, Riversdale, Pinegrove and Kellogg will take part. Every one in the Community is urged to attend.

Mrs. Ann Mumby attended the Callipooia Club meeting this week. She took Mrs. Dean Woods as her special guest.

Joint Committees from the Sunday School and the School Association of Umpqua met at the school house to discuss ways and means for the coming year. An interested group of 15 planned as their first project — a Carnival to be given on Halloween. The carnival will be held in the Community Hall and will have booths of games and food. Fun for every one and all are invited to come.

The committee heads are: Mrs. Hebard, chairman; Mrs. Amerson, Mrs. Mumby and Mrs. Murphy.

Donald Munson, who has recently returned from the east, has accepted a position with the Carsten Furniture Co. in Roseburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Manning have returned from their trip to Eastern Oregon where they were hunting.

White, sang the operatic aria, "Evening Star." Following was a group of popular American folk songs, "The Grey Goose," "Drill Ye Tarriers," "The Dying Soldier," and "The Blue Tail Fly."

"Noah," by Schmetz, "I am a Poor Wayfaring Stranger," spiritual, and "De Glory Road, by Jacques Wolfe," concluded the program, but the group responded with four popular encore selections.

The program opened with four selections, Beethoven's "The Heavens Are Telling," Schubert's "Restless Love," Brahms' "Marching Song," and R. Strauss' "Sing!"

The second group was Schumann's "Dedication," Chopin's Etude Op. 10, No. 3, and Rossini's "La Danza."

In "Carousel," the Men of Song combined the most popular production numbers from this show. Their encore was a selection from "Der Fledermaus."

YOUR BODY ROSEBURG, OREGON — These health articles are written and paid for by Dr. B. A. SMITH, Chiropractic Physician, 1500 Garden Valley Road, in the interest of public health and to help you understand the body function. Look for these informative articles every Saturday. Lateral curvature of the spine differs entirely from Pott's disease. Lateral curvature of the spine is a deformity of the body caused by a permanent bending of the spine to one side, so that instead of being straight it assumes somewhat the shape of the letter S. Not only is the spine bent to one side, but it is turned, to some extent, on its axis. In the beginning this distortion of the spinal column is not usually brought about by disease of the spine itself, although sometimes, in children with rickets, the softer bone makes the child liable to favor the deformity. It arises from causes which tend to pull the spine out of line more or less constantly. Since it occurs at an early age, when the spinal structures are very pliable, permanent distortion results, with gradual changes in the structure of the bones of the spine or vertebrae. It is important that this condition be discovered before actual structural changes occur, because the disease may be overcome, and in this way incurable and lasting deformity can be prevented. Among the predisposing causes are all sorts of circumstances leading to faulty positions of the body, such as improper arrangement of school desks; carrying of heavy weights constantly in one hand or one arm, as when children carry books; certain occupations; difficulties, such as faulty sight, requiring bending of head and body to see, also faulty lighting conditions. Among other causes are paralysis of muscles of one side of the body, rapid growth, rickets, etc. Lateral curvature is much more frequent in girls than boys; but it may be seen in robust boys who practice special exercises. While the deformity often begins in young children, it does not commonly become obvious until a later period (from eight to fifteen years of age), when growth is rapid. The bending in the upper part of the spine is usually to the right while the left shoulder is lowered and the left hip is raised as compared with these areas on the right side of the body. There is frequently no unpleasant symptoms. Sometimes, however, there is fatigue from slight causes, general irritability and pain on the left side, if the bending of the spine is toward the right. More often no pain is noted. Occasionally the disease may closely resemble angular curvature, but the fever, pain on movement and stiffness of the back are absent. In children, this deformity of the spine can usually be corrected by properly selected exercises and treatment. Any deformity that a child may have should be corrected as soon as possible. A club foot, for example, can be corrected if treated sufficiently early, whereas if the condition is neglected, the child may be lame for life. (Paid Advertisement.)
